Library offered expansion space

By MICHAEL GARDNER

WITH A consultant's report in hand that predicts Harrison Memorial Library needs at least three times more new space than an expansion will provide, the board of trustees has given a cool response to a plan to spend about $700,000 to obtain the adjacent 1,978 sq. ft. two-story Swiss Cafe building.

Trustees at their April 22 session will make a final decision on whether to enter into a complex property purchase and exchange deal advanced by an Oakland attorney and Fresno doctor.

The proposal was unveiled to the board at its March 26 meeting in which trustees also received a "function and space analysis" report that states the library by the year 2005 will need between 18,000 and 20,000 sq. ft. of space.

That is three times the 6,300 sq. ft. in the existing building on Ocean Avenue. The function/space analysis report also is to be discussed April 22.

The offer for the city to obtain the Swiss Cafe building is twofold.

The proposal, as presented by Oakland attorney Rodney Goya, is that the city buy two lots he and his partners own on the northwest corner of Ninth Avenue and Dolores Street.

Goya and his partners have plans for two homes on the two lots, which when constructed would be part of the deal.

After it buys the Goya property, the city then would trade the two residential lots to Dr. Elwood Sanders of Fresno.

In return, the city would receive the Little Swiss Cafe building, south side of Sixth Avenue between Dolores and Lincoln streets.

The advantage to Sanders, Goya explained, is that the doctor will not have to immediately pay capital gains taxes on a land exchange with the city. Sanders also plans to live in one of the homes.

Tree slashing proposal arouses CV ire

EUCALYPTUS TREES on the south side of Carmel Valley Road near its intersection with Boronda Road evidently are marked for pruning to five-foot-high stumps in a plan by the Monterey County Department of Public Works to reduce roadway hazards. The county plan, financed by $45,000 in federal funds, is the subject of a "town hall" meeting at 7:30 p.m., Friday, April 12 at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center. (Robert Miskimon photo).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

Save the trees

Dear Editor:

I want to speak for trees — all trees. At this critical moment specifically for the condemned trees — those gorgeous strong eucalyptus trees and magnificent oaks along the Carmel Valley Road in the Boronda turnoff.

Mr. Lundquist of public works proposes a mass eradication of some of our greatest assets! Trees provide shelter, shade, oxygen, fragrance, and strength to soil systems, besides the very beauty we residents came here for.

Carmel Valley, a scenic paradise, should not come under ordinary county and road ordinances which plow everything into an unsightly sameness.

We don't want a desert scene or more and wider pavements and road channelings. All this is for cities. This is still countryside.

Mr. Lundquist proposes to remove "hazardous trees." Speeding or drunken drivers are hazardous — not trees! We must not give them more room, but encourage them to slow down. Keep 35 m.p.h. signs along the entire narrower stretch.

The Boronda turnoff is wide and adequate. We have driven around it safely for more than 30 years.

The folly of seeing trees as obstacles and so much firewood has to stop, also the severe butchering of their limbs. It kills them, giving entrance to pests and fungus.

Securing government money and local funds for this destruction program is to me outrageous. We want the giant eucalyptus trees, all the white oaks and live oaks to remain. They are irreplaceable landmarks.

Punish the trees

Dear Editor:

Stupidity strikes again in Carmel Valley as the residents and the Monterey County Department of Public Works close their eyes to the real problem along Carmel Valley Road.

This stupidity stems from an unspecific study which was partially quoted in the Pine Cone/Outlook: "the last five to 10 years." Is it five or 10, or any year in between? Anyhow, this unspecific length of the study looked at a specific number of accidents.

"Thirty-six single-car accidents were used as a basis for a county study." These accidents as one statement calls them, "run-off-the-road types of mishaps involving one vehicle and a fixed object — trees." Yet in later statements, only nine of the 36 "fixed objects" were trees.

In any type of study of why things happen, 36 of anything happening does not constitute a criterion for anything, let alone only nine cases involving trees. It appears that the Monterey County Department of Public Works has the attitude of, "Since nine trees are involved, let's punish them by killing 13 of them and teach them a lesson." They talk about a six-foot clearance from the edge of the road.

I hope the six feet includes telephone poles, fences, mail boxes, signs, and most important, the hillsides themselves, and yes — let's not forget the spots where the hill drops away and less than six feet of shoulder exists. Let's fill them in.

Let's face it: why punish the trees when partial fault is the speed limit in certain sections? But the real problem is one or more of the following:

- Drunk driving
- Speeding
- Careless driving
- Falling asleep at the wheel
- Animals (unlikely! count the dead)
- Mechanical failure
- Weather
- Being run off the road by someone, which falls into one or more of categories one, two, three or four.

My guess to number eight is at least eight of the nine accidents quoted! What is actually needed is a high visibility of police and strict enforcement of the motor vehicle laws, not the killing of innocent beautiful trees! Or let's turn Carmel Valley Road into a freeway!

Not 'unqualified support'

Dear Editor:

I read with interest your article in the March 21 issue of the Pine Cone/Outlook regarding the CVPOA board meeting March 13. You covered the issues of tree removal and the housing authority overview plan quite thoroughly and clearly.

I feel, however, there was some misinformation and some detail left out in the next to the last paragraph. You stated there was general support for the use permit application of Stonepine. I attended the meeting and that was not the impression I got.

President of the board of CVPOA Gerry Foote expressed surprise that Stonepine was applying for a use permit after restoration work was already done. It is common knowledge to the people on the CVPOA board that the restoration was done without a building permit. Richard Dalsemer also read a letter concerning work done illegally in Carmel Valley by unlicensed and licensed contractors without getting permits.

The only person who praised the restoration at that meeting was David Armanasco. I am sure if he has toured the facility he has seen the extensive remodeling that has taken place there, and he would be aware that a building permit was not obtained before the use permit, which is applying for a use permit after the fact.

Armanasco also mentioned that Stonepine was asked by Cal-Am Water Co. to tie onto their service, which may have been a poor choice of words. The fact is Stonepine has petitioned Cal-Am to be annexed to the water supply because their own well is inadequate.

I see this project as having accumulated effect on the nitrates in the ground water as it is near Camp Stefani and Robles Del Rio areas near the river. It is well known that Camp Stefani and Robles Del Rio already have a problem with nitrates and this issue needs to be brought out.

I feel this whole issue needs to be clarified and the article should not have given with impression of unqualified support for Stonepine where there was none.

Let drivers beware

Dear Editor:

If a driver of a vehicle hits a tree, then the tree gets cut down. Right? Other trees along the roadway showing no signs of having been hit get cut down because they are "potential offenders." Right?

This is what is proposed for 13 beautiful trees along a short stretch of Carmel Valley Road between Los Laureles Grade and the Carmel Valley Village.

Those trees were probably living before the automobile was put on any roadway. They are a contribution to the scene as we travel the Carmel Valley Road. To remove them because some driver has been, or may be, so careless or reckless as to drive into them is a distorted view of the human being's place on this planet.

Let the drivers beware of our trees, not the other way around.

'Barbarous' tree removal

Dear Editor:

Ronald Lundquist from the Monterey County Department of Public Works in Salinas has outlined a proposal to remove 13 live and deciduous oaks from along Carmel Valley Road. Apparently there is a $50,000 fund available to commit this barbarous act and the fund is to be used only for the removal of the trees!

I guess utility poles are exempt from being hazardous. I'm sure the trees slated for removal would pose less threat to motorists if the road wasn't used as a speedway by a minority of thoughtless people.

This road after all runs through a residential area and is not intended to be a freeway. How much nicer if the fund could be used to create walking and bicycle paths.

This proposal shows a complete lack of sensitivity and a total disregard for the natural features that enhance Carmel Valley. I urge concerned citizens to call or write our five supervisors to save the oaks and preserve the endangered rural character most of us cherish.

Sit back, shut up

Dear Editor:

When Monterey allowed the building of the Hyatt Hotel, did the residents of Pebble Beach object? No.

When Monterey allowed the building of the new Sheraton, did the residents of Pebble Beach object? No.

When Monterey allowed the building of the aquarium, did the residents of Pebble Beach object? No.

As Carmel has developed more stores in the downtown area, creating more traffic problems, did the residents of Pebble Beach object? No.

Interesting. All of these developments and many more around the peninsula have increased the number of people and demands for services.

Now, why don't all of you outside of the Del Monte Forest keep your mouths shut, sit back, and let the people of Pebble Beach Co. show you how a project should be properly thought out and planned with careful consideration as to land use, sewers, water, traffic and most of all, preservation of open space for all to enjoy.

New library procedures

Dear Editor:

I would like to correct the misinformation given in Janet and Steven Sassoon's letter in your March 21, Pine Cone/Outlook.

Yes, the Harrison Memorial Library is using new library cards. We are not asking library patrons to tell us their age. We are asking patrons to tell us their social security number and driver's license number. This information can help the library retrieve long overdue books. However, as I explained to Mr. Sassoon in conversation and in two subsequent letters, this information is not required for a library card.

The library does, however, require that each card holder give us their mailing address and physical address. Why? Well, the Harrison Memorial Library receives funding from Monterey County for serving county residents. To be eligible to claim these funds from the county, we must be able to show we are serving county residents.

The only way to verify that an individual lives in the county is by their street address. Many county residents have Carmel post office boxes, so a box number is not an indication of residence. I spoke with Barbara Wynn, the director of the Monterey County Library and Ms. Wynn told me that the Monterey County Library also requires a street address to issue a library card.

Editor's Desk appears on page 4

In the 1950s Mrs. Janet Sassoon registered for a library card. At that time she gave us a physical address. The Harrison Memorial Library's registration requirements have not changed since then.

Defense budget 'obscene'

Dear Editor:

I have come to regard our $300 billion defense budget as obscene, insane and morally reprehensible.

How much money must it take to make us secure? How many more bombs? It seems that the more we spend on fear and death, the less safe we become and thus additional money is demanded.

Attendant with all our buildup in weapons systems that could char this planet many times over, there comes a government suspicion bordering on paranoia that gives birth to a specious kind of patriotism that defines secrecy as a virtuous necessity to our national security. Secrecy — secret police and secret decisions made by politicians and bureaucrats — is the hallmark of fascism.

I no longer believe that our bloated defense budget has anything to do with a threat from without. I believe it is necessary to keep an economically failing and morally bankrupt system going. Think of the repercussions in our small end of the world should defense spending be cut back to something resembling sanity. The unemployment rolls would skyrocket. And so they would all over this nation.

It seems to me our government is willing to perpetuate a monstrous system that exists and feeds on the threat of death and destruction of our planet and that such a way of life is insane, corrupt, repugnant, and doesn't deserve the respect, support, and sacrifice it exacts from its citizens.

'Marching blindly on'

Dear Editor:

Is a little place on earth, a lovely place, inviting genocide through desiccation?

Our rain god, Chac, thinks it is.

He sees development continuing (Spanish Bay, Carmel Valley Ranch, et. al.) without consideration for the limited water his talents can supply.

What happens when demand exceeds capacity? In dry years. Not drought years. Just plain and simple dry years.

Water rationing, of course.

The manager of our water board has said: "We may ask people to conserve water this spring."

Why? Chac knows. We have reached the stage, already, where current usage is more than a dry year can provide. Where end-of-summer rationing, if development remains unchecked, will become a permanent way of life regardless of Chac's benevolence.

Are we marching blindly on, inviting daily water meter readings, the noxious smell of unflushed toilets, the death of gardens? Yes, of course.

Was it integrity?

Dear Editor:

Supporters of William Rand have been upset by Mr. Rand's resignation because they did not want the Carmel Unified School District to lose a man of such high integrity.

Could integrity be the reason that Mr. Rand today is not $100,000 richer?

Trustees cool to offer of space to expand present Carmel library

Goya wants the city to buy his property for a price tag comparable to the value Sanders places on the Little Swiss Cafe building. A price of $700,000 has been mentioned by Goya.

Goya called his presentation a "test of receptivity...we just want to present an idea."

Trustees responded rather coolly to the idea, basically because they believe the amount of space offered simply is not worth $700,000 to the library.

But Trustee Tom Duffy successfully sought a postponement to at least give a committee the opportunity to review the project.

DUFFY NOTED that "it's one possibility. It's doubtful this would solve the problem but we should look at it further. I'd like to not turn them down flat."

Trustee Jean Grace questioned whether time should be spent on the proposal.

"Two thousand square feet gives us virtually nothing," she said. "Two thousand square feet is a drop in the bucket."

Grace didn't favor a committee study. "I don't think there's any point to it. Two thousand square feet for us is not worth $700,000."

Grace pointed out that either of the expansion or annex alternatives gives the city about 6,500 sq. ft. for approximately $1.2 million.

But at Duffy's insistence, Harrison Memorial Library Board of Directors President Bernard Anderson appointed a committee of Duffy, Mayor Charlotte Townsend and City Administrator Doug Schmitz to prepare a recommendation by the April 22 meeting.

Goya and Sanders also should prepare some kind of firm asking price based on an appraisal of both sites, trustees said.

Also at the April meeting trustees are expected to discuss the function/space analysis report prepared by consultant Ray Holt.

Holt did not mince words in his 28-page report to trustees, nor did he say much that has not been debated already in the long controversy over where and how to provide more library space.

"Even a cursory tour through the Harrison Memorial Library building should convince anyone there is a complete lack of usable space for adding to the current collections, arranging the services in an attractive and useful manner, providing adequate accommodations for users and sufficient work space for the staff.

The core of the problem appears to be the attachment of the people of Carmel to the present building designed by Bernard Maybeck. This affection is fully appreciated.

"However, it is time to remember that a library is composed of collections, services, users and staff — it is not a building.

Board considers golf course meters

WATER METER setting for the proposed Spanish Bay golf course and authorization of a final design for irrigating vegetation in lower Carmel Valley are to be considered at the April 8 meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board of Directors.

The meeting will convene at 7:30 p.m. in the Monterey City Council Chambers, Colton Hall.

The Spanish Bay meter connection was first considered Feb. 11, but was continued until after Coastal Commission hearings on March 28. The board may authorize a meter connection with similar conditions as those imposed for the Poppy Hills golf course.

The Pebble Beach Co., owners of the project, will not have to pay the full connection fee of more than $1.4 million unless voters approve a new water supply project. If reclaimed water for golf course irrigation is developed within one year of voter approval, meter fees will be reduced.

In other business, the board will review irrigation experiments for vegetation surrounding lower Carmel Valley wells and will authorize a final design based on the test results.

"While the building designed by Maybeck is meritorious and has provided a fine home for the Harrison Memorial Library for more than half a century, it can no longer do so without extensive remodeling and expansion."

Holt's analysis is based on his perception of the space needs by the year 2005, which will be an additional 18,000 to 20,000 sq. ft. more than what now is available.

NEITHER THE proposed annex at Sixth and Lincoln nor the Lincoln Street Annex approach these figures," Holt stated.

Holt recommends "that library officials take decisive action to remedy the critical space needs of the Harrison Memorial Library through adoption of a suitable plan to provide adequate space for collections, services, users and staff."

The "crux of the matter," the report continued, "is whether or not the residents of Carmel prefer to live with the inadequate yet honored Maybeck building or take the steps necessary to create a facility that will meet the community's library needs for the next two decades or more."

Holt outlined five alternatives that should be considered as part of his "suitable plan" for more space.

To retain the existing building as a library and provide more space, the city must consider "gutting and complete remodeling of the interiors along with an attached addition of at least 12,000 net sq. ft.," Holt recommended.

The consultant considers the Sixth and Lincoln annex a solution only if "the amount of space can be increased to at least 12,000 net square feet."

"Such an annex would raise numerous operational questions and will divide users, staff and collections between buildings," he wrote.

"These inconveniences will translate into higher operational costs that will persist for the life of the library's occupancy. This merits serious consideration as a major factor."

Holt also explored the concept of a new library at Sunset Center, which has been turned down by voters.

But, sentiment aside, Holt believes a new library "offers the most economical and practical solution for long-term library needs."

"To make this alternative palatable, the public must be assured that the existing structure is going to be preserved and remain in the public domain to serve a function such as a museum, art gallery, community meeting facility, or some other purpose that would not require extensive changes in either the interior or exterior of the building."

Another much-discussed choice is to relocate some services to another building.

"While this would in no way remedy the existing structure's deficiencies, a smaller attached annex of about 9,000 to 10,000 net square feet might then suffice."

HOLT CONCLUDED that children's services and a storage facility "would be the most likely candidates" for relocation.

Holt also explored the "retrenchment" theme, which is to trim the library collections, staff and services to fit the existing building.

For example, the library would have to review its circulation and "weed out" materials not frequently used.

"Growth in all collections then would be capped at a given maximum: for every book received, one would have to be discarded or stored off-site," Holt reported.

Retrenchment also probably would lead to a "general deterioration" of services.

In his analysis, Holt outlined 24 different "disadvantages" of the existing library. Some of these are:

- "The most apparent and important deficiency of course, is the grave lack of space. It is worth reiterating here, perhaps, that the structure offers less than one-third of the space the library collections, services, users and staff actually require."

- "There is no possible way that some magical reordering of existing spaces will provide the amount of room needed."

- "Collection development is heavily inhibited by the lack of space for books and other library materials."

- "Layout of library functions must conform with the five floor levels within the building resulting in labor-intensive operations."

- "Stairs make travel through the building precarious for those with physical infirmities, especially those of senior age thereby restricting their use of certain collections."

- "The pressure of collection growth has resulted in the insertion of bookstacks into spaces designed for reading rooms, which reduces and downgrades reader accommodations."

- "Staff productivity has been adversely affected by the lack of office and work room space and the necessarily awkward arrangement of the services and collections."

- "Because of the severe space deficit, it is necessary for the technical services department to be located at another site which incurs additional expenses, reduces staff productivity and creates numerous operating problems."

Holt also provided several suggested short-term remedies to help ease the space crunch until a permanent solution is found.

The key recommendation is to relocate the children's library to one of the city bungalows at Sunset Center.

The bungalows now are used for municipal offices, but should be vacated within the next few months when remodeling is completed on the Monte Verde Street city hall.

Holt also suggests that the library "weed" its collection of little-circulated materials, reorganize the reference department to include removal of the law book collection, and relocate materials now in the reading room to add space for users.

Mahroom density battle goes to planning panel

A BATTLE by High Meadow residents to get the Mahroom subdivision density reduced is to continue before the Monterey County Planning Commission at 9 a.m. Wednesday, April 10 at the county courthouse in Salinas.

The commission is to consider a request by the board of supervisors to amend the Greater Monterey Peninsula Area Plan so that the Mahroom subdivision density will be reduced.

Supervisors Jan. 22 referred the issue to the planning commission after the board was petitioned by High Meadow residents for a reduction in the density.

High Meadow is a condominium and single-family residence neighborhood southeast of Highway 1 and Carpenter Road.

Owner Majid Mahroom wants to build 36 condominiums on about 2.4 acres, which would be a density of 14.81 units per acre on the site south of Outlook Drive.

The 10 petitioners, who represent various homeowner groups in the High Meadow neighborhood, want the density reduced to allow for only 18 condominiums.

The opponents base their protest on the possible impacts 36 condominiums will have on the roads, sewage capacity and water supply in the area.

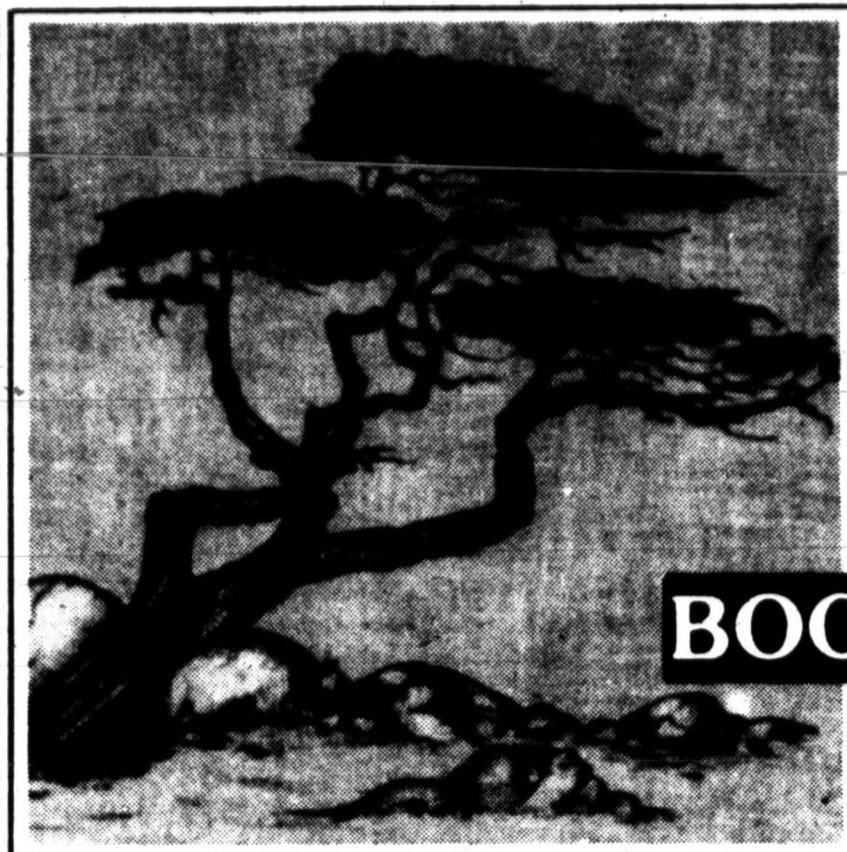

In other action, the planning commission is to once again review an application to add 24 units to the 43-room Carmel River Inn, west side of Highway 1 about half a mile south of Rio Road.

Commissioners at their March 13 session expressed dissatisfaction with the expansion, basically because the additional units were to be in a floodplain area.

But the board withheld a vote until after it could view the project April 1.

THE HARRISON Memorial Library Board of Trustees is cool to a land purchase and exchange scheme that would result in city ownership of the Little Swiss Cafe building.

Hospice deserves help in survival struggle

THE HOSPICE of the Monterey Peninsula has performed an invaluable humanitarian service since it opened in affording the terminally ill a place to depart this life with dignity and grace, surrounded by loved ones.

As an alternative to death in the sterile, sanitized world of the hospital, hospices have added another dimension to one of the inevitabilities of life and have helped break down the wall of denial that Americans have erected around the experience of death.

So it comes as disturbing news that the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula may be forced to close down its in-patient facility by April 15 because of cutbacks in federal funds — especially since federal funds seem to be abundantly available to purchase instruments of mass death.

Hospice volunteers and staffers have mounted a fund-raising campaign to replace some $250,000 in refused Medicare payments, and to generate the approximately $30,000 per month needed to sustain the in-patient facility.

The dedication of Hospice officials and workers to maintenance of the kind of care provided there is truly inspiring, and stands well for the unselfishness of their motives. The community at large already has begun to respond to their plea for help.

We can only hope that the response continues and is sufficient to continue operation of this vital service.

'Club Carmel' after school program offered

A 10-week after-school "Club Carmel" is to be offered from 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. April 8 to June 14 at Carmel Middle School, south side of Carmel Valley Road about one mile east of Highway 1.

Area students in grades six through eight are invited to attend the camp. Private school students in those grade levels also are welcome.

Cost of the program is $200 for the entire session, from 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Other arrangements are: $25 per week, $20 for Monday/Wednesday/Friday sessions, or $15 for students who just want to participate on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

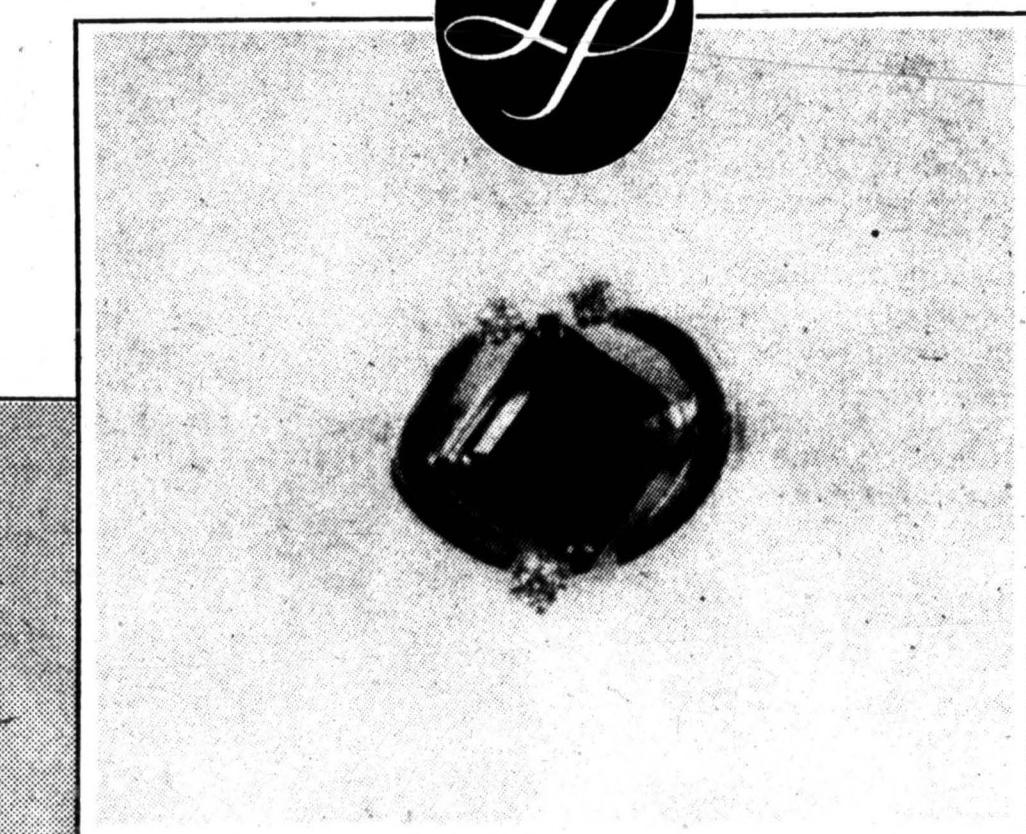

Pat Faverty, who operates Potrero Canyon Pre-school, is in charge of "Club Carmel."

The activities will include arts, crafts, archery, gymnastics, film making, conditioning, tennis, volleyball, basketball, soccer, softball and soccer.

Academics also will be offered, depending on availability of teachers and interest.

Special programs to be offered depending on interest will include: babysitting as a business, outdoor living skills, Friday parties and club Olympics.

School district may seek parcel tax

By MICHAEL GARDNER

THE FINANCIALLY strapped Carmel Unified School District appears ready to launch an uphill battle for a parcel tax to be placed on the ballot either July 23 or Nov. 5.

The board of education is to review a report on the possibilities of a parcel tax election when trustees meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 10 at Carmel Middle School, south side of Carmel Valley Road about one mile east of Highway 1.

The board was to meet April 8, but rescheduled the session because two trustees will be out of town next Monday.

Under Prop. 13, a parcel tax could be levied if approved by a two-thirds majority of voters.

The tax would be based on "units," such as number of parcels, rather than being assessed against the value of the property. The average home usually is counted as one parcel.

The actual dollar amount of a proposed parcel tax has not been discussed by trustees.

One of the possible uses of a parcel tax would be to help finance a solution to the overcrowded conditions at Carmel River School.

Interim Supt. Rich Hawkins and River School Principal Rosemary Montgomery April 10 are to present a recommendation that the board rent or lease one portable classroom to alleviate the overcrowding next fall while a long-term solution is studied.

Trustees believe the district will have a better chance of winning a two-thirds majority if the vote is taken during the recall election.

Voters July 23 will determine whether Board President Susan Bromfield and trustees James Yates and Robert Fenton should be recalled.

But there are timing problems the district may not be able to solve.

In a report to the board, special assistant Dan Yurkovich noted that under state guidelines there must be a 123-day waiting period between the date of the decision to

EVEN THE playgrounds are packed at the overcrowded Carmel River School campus. Interim Supt. Rich Hawkins will recommend to the board of education that the district place the issue on the ballot and election day.

Thus, for the district to comply with that deadline, trustees would have had to adopt a resolution March 24 that calls for the parcel tax election.

April 10 is about 105 days before the July 23 election.

Yurkovich told trustees the Davis school district successfully sought a waiver of the time period from the state Department of Education.

But the Davis waiver was granted because its counsel incorrectly told those trustees the waiting period is 88 days, Yurkovich said.

THE QUESTION before trustees next week is whether to seek a waiver or wait for the Nov. 5 election.

Trustees during an initial discussion March 25 appeared to want to try for a July 23 parcel tax election.

The reasoning behind the push for an early election is that an overwhelming majority of those who vote in the special recall election will support more tax money for the public schools, trustees believe.

"It seems like an opportunity," Bromfield said. "Most people who will go to vote no doubt will support the schools and more money."

Bromfield said the parcel tax "would cut down on some of the negative (the recall) and give us a running chance at passing something positive."

"This offers somewhat of a solution. Everything we talk about has a price tag on it. This would be an opportunity for the community to support the schools," Bromfield said.

One of the problems — if a waiver is obtained — is whether the district will have time to mount a campaign to convince two-thirds of those voting that a parcel tax should be approved.

Because of early agenda deadlines, the Carmel waiver would not be considered by the state Board of Education until June 13 or June 14. That is just six weeks before the July 23 election.

Fenton warned that trustees should not have their hopes too high for an early election.

"I'm pessimistic about the granting of a waiver. I don't think they throw them out so readily. We may have to look to November," Fenton said.

Trustees also have a tool to stave off much of the opposition to the parcel tax even before the campaign begins.

Senior citizens — who make up a vast number of voters, especially in the retirement city of Carmel and adjacent neighborhoods — may be exempt from parcel taxes.

Senior citizens do not have children in the schools and would be more likely to oppose the parcel tax, Yurkovich said.

Exempt from the tax, the elderly probably would not bother to cast ballots at a special election and thus a two-thirds majority of those voting would be easier to obtain, he said.

In his report, Yurkovich told trustees he contacted several school districts which have enacted parcel taxes.

Keys to the successful campaigns were

Carmel school district weighs parcel tax idea

specific identified uses for the money plus a limited duration of the tax — usually about four to six years, Yurkovich noted.

IN DAVIS, trustees successfully obtained a $45 per unit parcel tax that would be voided after four years.

The tax was specified for instructional materials, reinstatement of a seven-period day at the junior high school, reduction of class sizes and adding high school academic courses.

Tulare City Elementary School District obtained a six-year parcel tax of $25 per unit and $400 for any building permit.

The money is to be specifically used for two new schools and equipment.

In the Piedmont Unified School District, voters approved a four-year parcel tax based on the size of the land ranging from $185 to $315 per parcel.

The Hillsborough Elementary School District failed in its $50 parcel tax proposal because only 15 percent of the district voters are parents, Yurkovich said.

One of the possible uses for a parcel tax in the Carmel Unified School District is to help ease the overcrowded conditions at River School.

Hawkins and Montgomery plan to present a four-pronged recommendation to the board:

- Find other smaller rooms for low-enrollment classes, such as special education and gifted and talented education. The reorganization would free Room 5 for use as a regular classroom.

- Lease or rent for about $12,500 annually a portable building for a year or two. The portable would be used for the music and dance classes, now in the cafeteria. The cafeteria then could be freed for other uses, such as physical education or for gifted students, Hawkins said.

"What we want to do is lighten the load on the cafeteria a little bit and we're hoping to provide a little breathing space," Hawkins said. "It (the cafeteria) would still be there as a classroom if we need it," he added.

- Direct staff to develop a new policy on inter-district transfers. A study would be conducted on whether classes are overcrowded because of policy to allow students from other districts to attend Carmel schools.

- Direct staff to study a long-range solution to the overcrowded conditions, including a policy on maximum capacity at River School.

MANY PARENTS in previous meetings have suggested that trustees reopen Carmelo School in Carmel Valley to alleviate crowded conditions.

Hawkins has estimated it will cost the district at least $50,000 to reopen Carmelo School, closed two years ago because of financial problems and dwindling enrollment.

In other action, the board is to hear some bad news.

The Monterey County Office of Education has asked that the district reimburse it for the cost of educating several severely developmentally-disabled students.

Currently, eight students in the Carmel district are enrolled in special county programs. The county has asked for $900 for each student per year.

The county does not charge districts to educate the special education students. The county had been using reserve funds to finance the program. Those reserves now are depleted, Hawkins said.

In some good news, Hawkins is to unveil an $8,600 "mini-grant" program by which the district provides funds to several teachers for special projects.

Rosemary Montgomery honored

WHAT A DAY! Carmel River School Principal Rosemary Montgomery was honored by parents, teachers and students during "her day," March 27. Montgomery was greeted at school that morning with a large banner declaring her day. In her office she found a table setting of coffee and refreshments. Most of the staff wore "rosemary" twigs and throughout the day classes came to her office with flowers, posters and handmade gifts. A surprise potluck luncheon attended by about 25 parents was highlighted by the appearance of "Cupid," (above) who zinged a few humorous arrows at Montgomery while she laughed along goodnaturedly. Franco explains vote for Spanish Bay project

By MICHAEL GARDNER

ROBERT FRANCO — the Coastal Commissioner who cast the swing vote in a 7-5 March 28 decision to approve the Spanish Bay resort — promises to ensure that Pebble Beach Co. complies with each and every one of the 108 conditions of development or it will face revocation of the use permit.

Franco, in an hour-long interview with the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook at his Del Rey Oaks home April 2, detailed why he supported the project despite intensive public pressure to deny or at least scale down the 270-room hotel, 80-condominium and golf course resort in Del Monte Forest.

Franco, who two years ago was appointed by Assembly Speaker Willie Brown, also served on the regional Coastal Commission based in San Luis Obispo before the regional boards were disbanded.

Franco said he intends to keep a watchful eye on whether the project meets Coastal Commission conditions of approval.

The Pebble Beach Co. must buy three valuable parcels of forested land, make im-

Franco said he feels responsible to ensure that the project complies with each condition of the development approval.

"I went out on a limb politically because I believe the project has merit. I plan to keep abreast of exactly what is happening... Normally we tend to vote on an issue and forget it. I'm too close to this one."

The use permit agreement provided legally-binding guarantees of permanent public access, open space and preserved forested lands in Pebble Beach — a major influence in Franco's decision to approve Spanish Bay.

FRANCO NOTED that the major owners of Pebble Beach Co. are wealthy outsiders — Marvin Davis, the Denver oil magnate; and Rupert Murdoch, the Australian publisher.

Franco is wary that without legal protection through such an agreement the owners may want to exploit every available lot for development and profit.

"It's precisely for that reason we should have this now," Franco said.

"In the past, with the local owners, we could trust them. We can no longer afford to do that now."

For example, the company has agreed to buy and dedicate about 700 acres of forest for permanent open space.

"That's a lot of forest to be saved. It was already subdivided," he said. "This condition really puts the forest on record. They could have taken down the trees and built there. Nothing was formalized where they couldn't build."

Another such trade-off is the guarantee that Pebble Beach Co. will provide public access to several beaches in such areas as Point Joe and Bird Rock, he said.

"This is nailing it down. Before, nothing was in concrete. There was nothing we could do legally if they wanted to chase everyone off 17-Mile-Drive," Franco said.

And 80-condominiums are a fair trade for the 370 homes that could have been constructed on the site, Franco said.

One of the major contentions of opponents was that the "cumulative impact" of area projects needs to be considered as part of the Spanish Bay decision.

This also is a basis of a lawsuit filed by the cities of Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel that seeks to block the development.

Franco chided several jurisdictions for approving major projects that will have more impact on the area than Spanish Bay.

The Pacific Grove City Council, for example, has approved the large condominium complex near Highway 1 and Presidio Drive.

"That project will have several times the cumulative impact Spanish Bay will. The city of Pacific Grove approved it and they're complaining to us about cumulative impact."

The board of supervisors also recently approved 89 more units at Carmel Valley Ranch despite its cumulative impacts on the area, Franco said.

TWO OTHER major contentions are that the project does not have adequate water supply and sewage capacity.

The company has agreed to demonstrate availability of water and sewage capacity before construction. Water capacity has been allocated through the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, according to Pebble Beach Co. officials.

"It is up to the company to demonstrate that there is sufficient water available for the project and additional housing to be built."

"If they cannot do that, then their permit is invalid," Franco said.

The company is banking that a wastewater reclamation plant will provide the needed capacity, but that project still is to be approved by the Coastal Commission.

Franco believes that if the wastewater reclamation plant is not approved, then the company must stop any plans until a satisfactory alternative is developed.

"I do not believe a vested right can be gained by putting a shovel into sand," he said.

Before the March 28 meeting, Supervisors Karin Strasser Kauffman and Sam Karas — as individuals — asked the Coastal Commission to remand the project to the board.

But Franco pointed out that there was no official three-supervisor majority vote to ask for another crack at the project.

Franco said it is not his duty to play politics, but rather to look at the issue based on planning and the Coastal Act.

"There was a lot of politics being played on both sides. I felt the matter was planning, not a political one. The winds of politics change rapidly," he said.

Franco also questioned why supervisors, if they opposed the project, did not apply for an amendment to the land use plan that would have scaled down Spanish Bay.

"The amendment process is open any time. Down south they do them piecemeal. We get amendments every month," he said.

Unlike several commissioners who also supported the project, Franco doesn't believe a land use plan is etched in granite.

One of the focal points of the March 28 discussion was that the Del Monte Forest Local Coastal Program already included zoning for the resort.

However, most planning documents use such provisions to indicate permissive zoning of up to a certain amount.

El Sur Ranch decision voids building scheme

FUTURE building on El Sur Ranch now is in doubt after the Coastal Commission delivered a stunning 10-0 rejection of a development agreement approved by ranch owner Jim Hill and the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

George Brehmer, the attorney for Hill, said no decision has been reached on whether Hill will re-apply to the county for permission to build residences, a hotel and restaurant on the ranch.

Meanwhile, a lawsuit to block the development will remain on file and the courts will be asked to void the development agreement, according to attorney Alexander Henson, who represents Big Sur property owner Francis Jeffrey.

"We're going to wait and see what the Hills do and we'll respond to that. We'll keep it (the suit) on file and move to set aside the development agreement," Henson said.

The Coastal Commission March 29 unanimously rejected the development agreement, which would have allowed a 100-room hotel, 200-seat restaurant and up to 98 residences.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman of Carmel Valley is one of the leading critics of the development agreement.

Strasser Kauffman basically opposes the agreement because she believes it would grant preferential treatment to El Sur Ranch.

"I'm very encouraged that we now can have a good solid plan following the rules we have," she said. "It was a good day for the county and it was a good day for the Big Sur region."

Coastal Commissioner Robert Franco of Del Rey Oaks said he did not like the concept of the development agreement.

Instead, he prefers that Hill work within the perimeters of the existing Big Sur Local Coastal Program and come back to the commission with an application based on the planning guidelines in the land use plan.

"I would prefer that the development agreement disappear," he said.

El Sur Ranch is an approximately 7,100-acre spread that stretches from Molera State Park to Bixby Bridge.

Key provisions of the development agreement:

- Hill would be allowed to build up to 98 homes out of public view east of the hills that overlook Highway 1.

- The 100-room hotel would be constructed in three or four different buildings. The hotel and 200-seat restaurant would have been built in a grove of trees west of Highway 1 just south of Point Sur.

The state Coastal Conservancy would have purchased for $1 million easements of about 2,500 acres east of Highway 1 to ensure the property remained in permanent open space.

- The Save the Redwoods League was to buy for $3 million an 800-acre site between The Old Coast Road and Highway 1. The site included a grove of redwoods and access along the Little Sur River.

- A 350-acre parcel at the mouth of the Little Sur River would be purchased by the state Parks Department for about $1 million.

- Beaches at the mouth of the Little Sur River and just north of the Point Sur Naval Station would have been opened to the public.

ABOUT 50 Big Sur residents attended the Coastal Commission hearing at the Carmel Holiday Inn to oppose the project.

Much of the opposition centered on the belief that the development agreement would have unfairly granted Hill more building rights than what is allowed other property owners.

For example, the Big Sur Local Coastal Program states that new hotels outside the service centers (such as Lucia or Big Sur proper) are limited to a maximum of 30 rooms.

Yet Hill would have received permission for a 100-room hotel.

In addition, since the land use plan allows two restaurant seats for each hotel room, Hill would have been allowed 200 seats while a developer with 30 rooms only could build a 60-seat restaurant, opponents claimed.

Commissioners pointed out that the $5 million generated from the sale of properties would have afforded Hill enough financial security to continue ranching.

Hill's attorneys often have said Hill needed the "right to build" if he is to maintain financial solvency for the ranching operations.

The development agreement had been adopted by the board of supervisors at the urging of former supervisors Michal Moore and Bill Peters.

Hospice struggles for survival

By DEBRA DIX-MARTIN

COMMUNITY SUPPORT could save the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula from a painful death but volunteers and donations are needed immediately, according to hospice officials.

"We are asking the community if they want to keep the in-patient facility open," said Fred Faieta, director of development. "The community has to decide whether they want it or not."

Hospice directors announced last week they would have to close by April 15 because of a cutback in federal funds. They then decided to try to remain open, if an intensive fund-raising campaign could generate the needed funds.

The Hospice operates with a $1.2 million annual budget, but was brought to a state of financial crisis by notice that some $250,000 of expected $650,000 in Medicare payments had been refused by federal officials.

At the same time, according to Hospice officials, local fund-raising efforts had fallen short.

The Monterey Peninsula hospice was designed to care for terminally ill people of all ages and to offer support to families of the terminally ill.

Alice Alexander, director of nursing for the program, said the level of care offered by the hospice is not available in any other facility.

"Emphasis in an acute care facility does not include the dying person because all the efforts are toward recovery," Alexander said.

"So, people dying in an acute care hospital don't get the care they need," she added.

The Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula in-patient facility is a place where a person can go to live the last days of his or her life.

"We try to keep it from looking like a hospital as much as possible. The whole concept is that the patient will feel at home," Alexander said.

There are few restrictions at the in-care unit. Family members (including pets) may

Town hall meeting called on tree-cutting proposal

COUNTY Public Works Department plans to cut down 13 oak and a number of eucalyptus trees considered hazardous to Carmel Valley Road drivers will be discussed by Carmel Valley residents at a public meeting Friday, April 12.

Conducted in "town hall" style, the meeting will be co-sponsored by the Village Improvement Committee and the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Youth Center, Ford and Carmel Valley roads. The public is invited.

The plan, first aired by the county at a CVPOA board of directors meeting March 13, has caused considerable public comment in the Valley, and much disagreement. Petitions are being circulated through stores and eating places in Carmel Valley Village.

The county will be represented at the meeting by Ronald J. Lundquist, senior civil engineer of the public works department, who originally presented the idea, and by Bruce McClain, public works director. Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is expected to attend. Jerry Foote, CVPOA president, will preside.

"The purpose of the meeting is to air views, both pro and con, and to consider alternatives to the tree removal plan," Foote said.

Among the alternatives, she said, might be guard rails, road adjustments, speed limits and other measures short of cutting down the 13 oaks, among them some of the oldest trees in the Valley.

County proposals for the eucalyptus trees along both Carmel Valley Road and Boronda Road are to trim Boronda trees to a 20-foot height and to reduce the Carmel Valley Road trees to five-foot stumps. All of the trees scheduled for trimming or removal are along Carmel Valley Road from the foot of Los Laureles Grade to Carmel Valley Village.

In the past three years, Lundquist told CVPOA directors, 36 accidents involving nine trees have occurred along this stretch of road. The accidents caused one fatality and six injuries.

Removal would cost approximately $50,000, Lundquist said. Funds totaling $45,000 would come from federal highway sources with $5,000 of county matching money.

Five local riders garner state recognition

Patty Stumbaugh of Carmel Valley led a team of five riders from the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center at the California Horse Trials March 22-24 in Fresno.

The young equestrians and their trainer Michelle Rush, hunter-jumper manager and instructor for the center, literally popped out of the horse trailer and into the show ring for classes during the closing hours of the event.

Patty, riding her hunter Dragon Wings, won the Clovis Hunt Seat Medal for age 17 and under and placed second in the California Professional Horsemen's Association medal competition for age 18 and under. She also won the open equitation class for age 14 and under.

Terry Stumbaugh of Carmel Valley, riding

Haiku, placed third in children's hunters age 17 and under and took fifth in novice hunters under saddle age 17 and under.

Dana Bambace of Pebble Beach, riding her horse Little Bo Jangles, placed third in children's hunters under saddle age 17 and under, fourth in open equitation age 14 and under, and fifth in novice equitation age 17 and under.

Joanne Robbins of Carmel Valley, riding her horse On My Honor, placed fourth in both junior hunters under saddle age 17 and under, and novice equitation age 17 and under. Erin Forrest of Pacific Grove, riding On My Honor, placed fifth in maiden equitation age 17 and under.

Patients may make their own schedules and decide their own diet.

Alexander explained that because each person is very different, all patients are evaluated and cared for on an individual basis.

"The facility is designed for people at the very end of their lives," she said.

ALEXANDER SAID the non-profit organization is funded by reimbursements from Medicare and donations from the surrounding community.

Cutbacks in federal funding and lack of community support have jeopardized the hospice's six-bed inpatient facility.

"If we don't get the money, then we'll close," Alexander said.

"I believe the community will not let it go down the drain," she added.

Faieta reported that during the past weekend, in one day, more than $30,000 dollars was raised to maintain the in-care unit.

However, according to Alexander, at least $50,000 dollars per month is needed to keep the in-patient program alive and both long-term and short-term help are needed immediately.

Approximately 402 Monterey County people have been cared for at the hospice inpatient program and 400 have received in-home care, in the past three-and-a-half years.

"We're asking businesses, individuals in the community, clubs, organizations and churches to support us in any way they can or would like to," Faieta said.

Donations, pledges and volunteers are needed to help the fund-raising effort.

Faieta emphasized that both large and small donations are important to the survival of the hospice and volunteers are needed as well as money.

Faieta said hospice officials are discussing both short-term and long-term plans to assure the facility's financial stability.

OPEN LETTER TO THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA

Dear Mayor, Council Members and Planning Commission,

We, the Board of Directors of the Carmel Business Association have taken a unanimous position in opposition to the perception that hours of closing is a threat to the health, wealth and safety of our residents for the following reasons:

1. The perceived closing is discriminatory as it singles out certain business for early closure while allowing others to remain open at will.
2. No suitable explanation has been given to show that there is in fact a state of need necessitating monitoring hours of closing shops and businesses.
3. To attempt to unfairly regulate privately owned businesses is a direct violation of our Constitutional rights.
4. Monitoring the hours is vague and uncertain in that it uses as sundown as the criteria.
5. The majority of Carmel residents are working people and cannot return to their homes until after 5:30 p.m. and need evenings for shopping.

Most of the residents who live in Carmel are able to do so because of their own past personal efforts in the free enterprise system. This is the same system that is being jeopardized when restrictions are put on. Under the free enterprise system, businesses that fulfill a need after 6:00 p.m. should be allowed to do so; those that don't, already close by their own volition.

We think the Council and Planning Commission should be reminded that if restrictions are put into effect, we in this Village will no longer enjoy what Abraham Lincoln so aptly described in his Gettysburg address as "Government of the people, by the people and for the people."

Laureles Grade and the village. (See related story, this issue.)

In other matters, the board is to discuss the latest developments on the use permit renewal application for Chateau Julien, a winery on the south side of Carmel Valley Road about six miles east of Highway 1.

The application now is before Monterey County Zoning Administrator Dale Ellis, who has continued action on the renewal until May 9.

The quarterly meeting of the property owners is to be at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, May 5 at Rancho Canada.

The April 10 session of the CVPOA Board of Directors is open to the public.

River panel recommends armed guard not be hired by district

THE CARMEL River Advisory Committee will recommend that enforcement of Monterey Peninsula Water Management District regulations be accomplished without an armed peace officer.

Committee members adopted the recommendation at their Monday, March 25 meeting at The Crossroads community room. It is to go before the board of directors at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 8 at Monterey City Hall, Monterey.

Water management district staff originally proposed establishment of a position for an armed peace officer to enforce district ordinances related to the Carmel River. Ordinance 14 prohibits any activities in or near the river which would damage or alter the channel, vegetation, or river bank and sets forth fines for violations.

When the river committee met last month, members expressed reservations about having an armed guard patrolling the river. Chris Pentony, district construction representative, has been enrolled in law enforcement classes and would assume the new position.

After last month's committee meeting, Pentony told the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook he would not have to carry a gun to perform his duties and said his proposal had been misunderstood.

As a result, the Carmel River Advisory Committee will recommend that job descriptions of the resource analyst and construction representative be revised to include enforcement of district ordinances.

"The method of enforcement would involve a verbal warning, followed by a citizen's arrest for a second offense," according to a staff report.

"Staff would then call the sheriff to issue the citation."

Carmel in quandary over parking tickets

THE CITY of Carmel is among the cities of Monterey County in a quandary over how to deal with the paperwork that follows each and every parking citation.

The topic came up because Monterey County Municipal Court judges decided Monday to discontinue processing of parking tickets for the cities. As a result, the cities will either have to hire clerks to process parking tickets or contract with a private company for the task.

Either way, cities will likely pay more for the mundane, but monumental task. Last year, Carmel-By-the-Sea dispensed approximately 25,500 parking citations, according to Police Chief Robert McGilvray.

The city of Monterey wrote more than 80,000. No other city in the county even comes close to the numbers of tickets written by the two tourist-rich and parking-poor peninsula cities.

Although it hasn't been decided when the county will stop processing municipal parking tickets, the end is likely to come before the year is out, municipal officials believe. Michael Fields, presiding judge of the municipal courts in Monterey County, expressed a willingness to make the transition as smooth as possible for the cities.

Currently, the cities pay the county court system $1.10 for each citation processed, but that's not enough to cover the overhead of doing the job, according to county court administrators.

In a March 5 memorandum to the city council, Carmel City Administrator Douglas Schmitz reported that the city of Hermosa Beach uses six clerks and a supervisor to process that community's annual crop of 150,000 parking fines.

Chief McGilvray said he has no idea yet what the costs might be for Carmel to process its own parking tickets, but that a committee of municipal officials from around the county is now studying both the impact and the options of the pending new system for handling tickets.

Adjustments board delays three major projects

THE CARMEL Board of Adjustments — fearful of major traffic problems on San Carlos Street — has withheld approval of three large condominium and commercial projects.

The board is to review the three applications and possible cumulative impacts on traffic during a special meeting at 4 p.m. Wednesday, April 10 at Carpenter Hall inside Sunset Center.

Board members are to consider:

- An application from the Little family to demolish and rebuild their 42-room Carmel Sands motel, Simpson's restaurant and cocktail lounge, northeast corner of San Carlos Street and Fifth Avenue.

- A proposal from Sam Garzone to build 10 condominiums and two apartments on the Grunion Run property, south side of Fourth Avenue between San Carlos and Mission streets.

- Ray Freschi's request to build a retail and 11-condominium complex on the west side of Junipero Avenue between Sixth and Fifth avenues.

All three applications were on the March 27 board of adjustments agenda. The board briefly reviewed the Freschi and Garzone applications, but did not discuss the Little family proposal.

The commission is especially wary of the potential added traffic on San Carlos Street, a major thoroughfare to downtown and a post office exit route.

In addition to the three projects before them, commissioners also are concerned about traffic to be generated by the eventual construction of a two-story office and retail complex proposed by actor Clint Eastwood on the west side of San Carlos Street between Sixth and Fifth avenues.

Eastwood's project was reviewed by the council Tuesday night. (See related story, this issue.)

The board last week also did not want to rule on major projects when two of the members, Gene Hammond and John Logan, were absent.

During most of the March 27 session, the board merely listened to outlines of the Freschi and Garzone projects.

Freschi's plans for the 15,000 sq. ft. site includes six shops, the restaurant and 10 condominiums. There will be 24 underground parking spaces.

Freschi wants 4,216 sq. ft. of commercial space, which would be a 626 sq. ft. increase over the existing commercial use now.

The former San Francisco Federal Savings building will be moved to another site.

The Blackburn and Blackburn stamp shop has been offered a chance to lease new space when its lease expires in 18 months.

CONSTRUCTION, which is not to begin for at least a year, will be done in phases so Blackburn and Blackburn will not have to relocate until the lease expires, Freschi told the board.

"Our intention is to do things in phases. By the time we get started with this thing it will be at least a year. There is no reason why, they could not remain if they want," Freschi said.

Restaurant St. Tropez also will be relocated to one of the new buildings but will remain the same size with 35 seats.

The 10 condominiums will range in size from 910 to 1,280 sq. ft. If rented, the units will cost $700 to $900 monthly. Or he will sell the condominiums for about $250,000 each, he said.

"We're attempting to go after the middle class tenant," Freschi said.

Plans also envision saving the two large redwoods, and an oak and pine.

Board Chairwoman Sandy Swain recommended continuance because "I am very uncomfortable voting on this project with two of our members unavailable."

The other board members took her advice and unanimously voted to review the project again April 10.

After continuing the Little family's application, the board of adjustments moved ahead to Garzone's proposal for the Grunion Run property.

Garzone basically proposes four separate buildings with a total of 10 condominiums and two apartments on the 16,000 sq. ft. site.

The agenda item was basically an opportunity for Garzone to discern the thoughts of the board about the proposed project before a complete design is submitted.

The board expressed concerns about building setbacks (between two and 10 feet), small number of on-site parking spaces (12) and the little open space that can be seen from the street.

Garzone also claims that on-street parking will provide an extra 11 spaces.

Board member Gene Cava called the on-site parking "woefully inadequate" and suggested that Garzone should provide more spaces and not rely on off-street parking.

It was also during the discussion of the Garzone property that the board expressed concerns about the "cumulative" impact all of the projects will have on San Carlos Street traffic.

"You can't move on San Carlos Street now with the double parked trucks and the post office traffic," Swain said.

Cava added that soon the neighborhood will begin to look like a "San Franciscan street-scape."

The board noted that it will further address the traffic and parking issues on San Carlos Street April 10.

In another continuance, the board postponed action on a use permit for Carmel PhotoArt inside the Paradise building, northeast corner of Dolores Street and Ocean Avenue.

The postponement was at the request of the applicant, Martin Fox.

Valley resident to appeal ruling on dedication of river easement

DON DRUMMOND can't understand why the county insists that he allow people to trapse within 10 feet of his back door just so he can install riprap to protect his Fawn Court home on the Carmel River.

That is why Drummond will appeal a planning commission decision that he dedicate a 15-foot easement to the county as a condition of approval for his river bank erosion control project.

The appeal is to be heard by the board of supervisors at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday, April 9 at the county courthouse in Salinas.

A recent similar commission requirement was successfully appealed to the supervisors by Carmel Valley resident Scott Ramsden.

The planning commission attached the easement condition to the Drummond and Ramsden projects as part of county plans for a walking and horse trail along the river.

"We are asking the county supervisors to say the privilege of protecting property does not require the privilege of 15 feet of my property," Drummond told the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook.

Drummond especially is upset that the easement is "undescribed," which he said means that the county could place the trail anywhere on his property.

"The only place they could put an easement is the top of the river bank. That would put people within 10 feet of my back door," he said.

Drummond said he would open his property "in a minute" for a trail if there was room at a reasonable distance from his home.

He also criticized county planning staff, which he said has refused to come out and look at the property to determine whether an easement is appropriate.

Instead, they have just endorsed a "blanket policy" without any thought to individual cases, Drummond said.

"Any intelligent group could come out here and see where to put the easement," he said: "I think there is a more intelligent method than a blanket policy."

Drummond also complained that the county refuses to investigate other river property owners, who have placed riprap along the river without permits.

He said he called county officials about the alleged illegal protection measures and "none of them would come and do anything."

In another matter, supervisors are expected to vote on a use permit for the 12-unit resort "Stonewine," the 330-acre former Russell Ranch on the south side of Carmel Valley Road just east of the Village.

Supervisors considered the application March 26, but deferred action to give the board an opportunity to review the traffic impact the resort may have on Carmel Valley Road.

Sutton elected president of Youth Center

MERV SUTTON, owner of Nielsen Bros. Market, has been elected new president of the Carmel Youth Center Board of Directors.

Election of officers was one of several business matters conducted by the new board at its first session of the term.

Besides Sutton, the new officers are: Tim Connell, vice president; Dee Cotton, secretary; and Lou Langley, treasurer.

In a progress report, co-director Carole Colter told the board that membership has doubled from 30 to 60 since early February.

Programs scheduled to begin soon include: jazzercise, weight training, modern, jazz, tap and break dancing, guitar and band.

A dance for middle school students tentatively is scheduled for April 12 and planning is in motion to raise funds for the purchase of a videotape recorder.

City gets offer on Flanders

THE CITY may finally have a stroke of luck concerning what to do about Flanders Mansion.

The council Tuesday night received a letter from John Hanna of Palo Alto, who has offered to open negotiations to buy the property as a personal residence.

No purchase price was proposed in his letter.

The council directed City Administrator Doug Schmitz to contact Hanna and express an interest in his proposal. The council will meet with him as soon as an appraisal is conducted.

The offer to buy the Flanders Mansion came at the very end of a four-hour council session that was highlighted by an appearance by actor Clint Eastwood.

But even "Dirty Harry" himself couldn't sway the council, which rejected his proposed two-story office and retail complex on the west side of San Carlos Street between Sixth and Fifth avenues.

The council has been in a dilemma the past few years over what to do with the Flanders Mansion, a two-story home inside Mission Trail Park off Hatton Road.

A consulting engineer has predicted it would take at least $360,000 to renovate the more than 50-year-old structure to safety codes of today. And there is some question whether the supporting beams could be adequately reinforced to meet earthquake safety standards.

Having just spent about $500,000 to remodel city hall, the council was in no mood to pump that kind of cash into a building that now is rented to two tenants (a private resident and the John Cunningham Art Institute) for $500 a month each.

The council also failed in past attempts to lease the Flanders Mansion to non-profit agencies for $1 per year in exchange for renovation work to be undertaken by the organizations.

In March, after a rejection of a request by the American Youth Hostel Association to lease the mansion, the council decided to try and find a private tenant to buy the property.

Hanna's proposal appears to be the ideal the council has sought.

Hatton Fields residents continually complained to the council that leasing the mansion to an agency would generate unwanted traffic and fire safety problems.

There also have been concerns expressed about potential overuse of Mission Trail Park, a quiet sanctuary for residents away from the tourist traffic.

A single-family residence would not generate any of these unwanted problems.

In his letter dated April 2, Hanna wrote: "While looking for lots in the Carmel area for a home site, it was suggested to me by Lacy Faia that there may be some interest on the part of city officials in being relieved of maintaining the Flanders estate and at the same time seeing it restored and preserved as a single family residence of considerable historic interest."

"I WOULD appreciate your acceptance of this letter as an offer to negotiate the purchase of a portion of that property.

"If the council responds favorably, I shall submit a formal purchase offer," he concluded.

Hanna outlined eight conditions he would like to see included in the potential purchase agreement with the city.

These include his right extensively to remodel the interior, have exterior modifications subject to city approval, that the city would have first right of refusal to re-acquire the site in the future, and that the city maintain the land to be retained as open space.

Earlier in the evening, council members shot down Eastwood's proposed retail and office project.

Councilwoman Helen Arnold was away on vacation.

Council members believe the proposed building is too massive as seen from the public way.

Councilmen Robert Stephenson and David Maradei argued that the size of the building has not been substantially reduced even though a year ago the council rejected the development on the same grounds.

After the meeting, Maradei said that if architect George Brook-Kothlow would "push the building back four feet this would have no trouble passing."

Council rejection came minutes after Eastwood made a soft-spoken plea for approval.

Looking very little like the tough-guy cop in his suede jacket, blue shirt and maroon tennis shoes, Eastwood told the council that he has tried to work with the city in every possible way.

He pointed out that he is a longtime resident of Carmel (one of his several homes is on San Antonio Street), and plans to live here for "a long time to come."

Noting his cooperation, Eastwood said "I hope I'm not penalized for taking the genteel approach."

Eastwood, in response to complaints that his building appears too "modern," said: "I'm not a big fan of modern, but I'm not a smurf fan either."

Eastwood's "smurf" remark is in reference to the common description of some buildings in Carmel such as Cottage Row, northwest corner of San Carlos Street and Sixth Avenue.

Smurfs are television cartoon characters.

Afghanistanian culture celebrated in Valley

By SUSAN BOCK

THE NIGHT was dark and cold last Friday evening as guests approached the Summerhouse restaurant in Carmel Valley for an unusual evening in celebration of Afghanistan.

Those who came were greeted by the laughing voices of other guests as they arrived, and by the enticing aroma of exotic foods wafting from the kitchen.

An attractive blonde woman dressed in a flowing silk robe welcomed party-goers with a warm smile, and seated new arrivals at a long table covered with a gold table cloth.

The room came alive with Afghanistanian folk music, and the colorful costumes of those who came to join in the celebration of Afghanistanian culture dazzled the senses. The walls of the restaurant were adorned with bright carpets.

Heidi Miguel, owner of the Summerhouse, lovingly refers to these special dinners as foreign affairs." For the diners, it is an affair of the heart as they relax in the exotic surroundings of the country being celebrated for that one exciting evening, dine on the authentically prepared dishes while enjoying the live entertainment.

All of this began last December when John Sabater, Miguel's partner in this wild and wonderful adventure, suggested that once a month they offer "Dining Around the World" to their customers.

For each such occasion, they decorated the restaurant with items from the country they had chosen and wore native costumes.

With this idea in mind, they advertised La Posada, a traditional Mexican Christmas, complete with live harp music, pinatas and door prizes. The idea turned into a roaring success. Many of the diners were so excited by the prospect that they donned appropriate costumes themselves, lending their own flair to an already exciting evening. In January, an "Arabian Night" offered exotic Middle-Eastern dining, a fashion show of Middle Eastern dress and belly dancing.

With these two successes already established, a February "To Russia with Love" and the already mentioned March affair to celebrate the Afghanistanian new year brought people from all over Monterey Bay area to the already overflowing doors of the Summerhouse.

The response was so overwhelming that if reservations had not been required in advance many people would have been turned away at the door.

John said he initiated the same type of program at Slates Hot Springs (now Esalen) some years back and it proved to be such a wonderful success that people from Los Angeles would drive up just to join the celebration.

UNFORTUNATELY, mud slides in Big Sur closed the roads for such a long time that they had to shelve the idea because no one could get to them. Then the opportunity to revive the dining speciality reappeared when Heidi hired John to help her redecorate the restaurant.

He mentioned the idea, she agreed to try it, and now they have plans for the next seven months to celebrate Greece, Japan, Spain, the French (on July 4), India, Germany (for an Octoberfest) and Italy complete with an opera singer. The future is full of surprises!

Heidi, who took over the Summerhouse four and one-half years ago simply because she "loved to cook," laughed at the changes that owning such a place have wrought for her.

"I used to be very, very shy," she laughed. "I used to stay hidden in the kitchen, then I finally made it to the coffee pot outside the kitchen door, then to the silverware, then to the cash register and finally to greeting people at the front door."

"Then there I was on Arabian Night out in the middle of the floor dancing in a belly dancing contest that we held for everyone. I could hardly believe it was me!"

The once quiet Summerhouse, which opened only for breakfast in years past, is now open seven days a week for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Stop work order issued

CITY BUILDING official Tim Meroney has placed a stop work order on the now under construction Torres Street apartment project because the city believes the building actually is to be used as a motel. The building permit was issued for apartments. The city called the rental office for the apartment and allegedly was told that the units are to be fully furnished, rented for $500 a week with no leases. Similar information was given to the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook in a separate phone call to the office. Code Enforcement Officer Mary Jahr Purvis said the city contacted attorney Dennis Powell, a co-owner, who said the building is for apartment use. Powell told this newspaper that the information provided by the rental office is "totally false." He continued that the leasing is to be handled through his office and that he "definitely" wants longterm tenants. And if the city persists in the stop work order? "If it comes down to it there may be a lawsuit," Powell replied. Work on the apartments has been halted for three weeks as attorneys for the city and Powell attempt to work out an agreement. OBITUARIES

Helen G. Zahn

Graveside services took place March 22 in the Monterey City Cemetery for Helen G. Zahn of Carmel who died March 20 at Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital. She was 71.

Born Aug. 2, 1913, she lived in Carmel for nine years and was a member of the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include daughter Donna Z. McGonigal of Carmel Valley; sister Gladys Lindell of Indianapolis; and a grandson. Her husband Donald died in 1978.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Mid-Valley Volunteer Ambulance Rescue Fund, 8455 Carmel Valley Road, Carmel, Calif. 93923.

Charles McCulloch

Memorial services took place March 26 at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula in Carmel Valley for Charles Eddy McCulloch, Jr. — a resident of Carmel for 27 years who died March 23 at Community Hospital. He was 71.

Born Dec. 9, 1913 in Portland, Ore., he attended Ohio Wesleyan University, then returned to Oregon to pursue a career in the lumber business. In 1946, he and his family moved to Rockport, and later to Willits, where he was a partner in logging and lumber mill enterprises.

In 1958 he moved to Carmel and purchased Carmel Rancho Liquors. Concerned about the quality of commercial development in lower Carmel Valley, he served as chairman of the Lower Carmel Valley Advisory Committee, which makes recommendations to the county on design and development issues.

He served on the Advisory Committee for County Service Area No. 43, a fire protection district, and on the board of directors of the Visiting Nurse Association. For the past year, he was an auxiliary volunteer for Community Hospital.

Survivors include his wife Mary Lou of Carmel; son Charles M. of Berkeley; daughters Mary McCulloch Fox of Berkeley and Holly McCulloch of Albany; sister Helen M. Selander of Lake Oswego, Ore., and two grandchildren.

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea with the Paul Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, Box BB, Monterey, Calif. 93940 or to the Visiting Nurse Association, 187 Eldorado St., Monterey, Calif. 93940.

Rudolph R. Lamar

Funeral services took place March 11 at Struve and Laporte Funeral Chapel for Rudolph R. Lamar of Carmel, a Monterey County supervisor from 1942 to 1950 who was known as "Rudy."

He died March 6 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital at the age of 82.

Born Sept. 27, 1902 in Zagreb, Yugoslavia, he settled in Salinas in 1927 where he established Lamar Brothers Tire Co. with his brother E.P. Lamar.

He retired from the family business in 1946 and opened Pacific Concrete Co. and also went into the lettuce business. From 1954 to 1964, he worked for the Monterey County Assessor's Office. He retired again and moved to Carmel in 1964.

He was a member of Salinas Moose Lodge No. 1165, Druids No. 101 of Salinas, Wisteria Circle No. 102 and a life member of Salinas Elks Lodge No. 614.

He was also a member of St. Ansgar's Lutheran Church, the Foundation of Community Hospital and the Carmel Foundation.

Survivors include his wife Lena C.; a son Donald of Carmel; a daughter Margo Shannon of Salinas; two sisters, Mrs. Steve Clark of Denver, Colo., and Olga Ahrenkiel of Salinas; a brother E.P. Lamar of Salinas; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Entombment took place at Garden of Memories Cemetery.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, P.O. Box HH, Carmel Calif. 93921, or to the American Heart Association.

Margaret Stebbins

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea for Margaret Chamberlain Stebbins, a resident of Carmel for the past 35 years who died March 5 at her home. She was 77.

She was born Nov. 15, 1907 in Baltimore, Md.

Her memberships included the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula, the Carmel Foundation, the Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula, the Monterey Peninsula Democratic Club and the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services.

She is survived by a daughter, Edith Paxman of Davis; a son, Robert of Corvallis, Ore.; two sisters, Elizabeth Chater of Passaic, N.J., and Frances Donegan of Hartford, Conn.; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the donor's favorite charity.

Rosemary Cameron

A memorial service took place Thursday, March 14 at All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel for Rosemary Sloan Richter Cameron, a Carmel resident since 1966 who died in Carmel March 8. She was 81.

She was born May 18, 1903 in Winslow — in what was then Arizona Indian Territory — the daughter of J.H. Richter, an engineer with the Santa Fe Railway. As an infant and small girl her nursemaids were women of the Hopi tribe. Throughout her life she held a deep affection for the Indians of Arizona, especially the Hopi, and worked for their welfare through charitable organizations.

After her father's early death, she moved with her mother to Los Angeles where she completed her education at the University of California and earned a teaching credential for the primary grades.

In 1930 she married Donald Mackenzie Cameron in San Francisco and shortly thereafter moved to Manila, the Philippines, where her husband was an executive of the Everett Steamship Corp. After World War II, she was asked to help in reorganization of the American School in Manila, and subsequently taught third grade for a number of years. She also devoted much of her time to church work and to Filipino charities.

On her husband's retirement in 1965, the couple moved briefly to Positano, Italy, and then to Carmel. She was a member of All Saints' Episcopal Church.

Survivors include a son, Grant of Carmel, and a daughter, Donaldina Klingen of Mill Valley. Her husband died in 1974.

The Rev. Allen Wolter of All Saints' officiated at the services. Cremation took place under the direction of the Paul Mortuary, with ashes scattered at sea in the Pacific Ocean where her husband's ashes were placed.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Monterey County SPCA.

Malinda Witherspoon

Memorial services took place March 20 at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea for Malinda Emma Witherspoon of Carmel, a retired dental nurse who died March 17 at Community Hospital. She was 86.

Born March 22, 1898 in Springbrook, N.Y., she moved to Carmel from Tarzana in 1967. She last worked in Corona Del Mar and retired in 1960.

She was active in volunteer work at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church in Carmel Valley and at Gateway Center of Monterey County in Pacific Grove.

Survivors include daughters Billie Quinto and Louise Detrick, both of Carmel; brothers Norman Koch of Parachute, Colo., and Louis Koch of Salinas; four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Central Mission Trails Chapter of the American Heart Association.

Katherine Branson

Katherine Fleming Branson, who gave her name to the Katherine Branson School in Marin County and headed it for 31 years, died March 18 at Carmel Valley Manor. She was 98.

Born Feb. 7, 1887 in Coatesville, Pa., she attended Bryn Mawr College and graduated in 1909. After several years of teaching Latin and mathematics and undertaking administrative work in schools in the East, she became the first headmistress of a new non-sectarian college preparatory school in Marin County in 1920. When it moved to its present location in Ross in 1922, the board of trustees named the school in her honor.

She retired in 1951 and moved to Carmel, where she lived until she moved into Carmel Valley Manor in 1971.

Survivors include a sister, Sarah B. Cornell of Carmel, and a niece and a nephew. At her request, no services were held. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

BUSINESS BEAT BY NANCY HILLS

Big Sur Lodge sold

BIG SUR LODGE in the Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park changed hands April 1 from Lavonne and Donald Tosh to First Securities of America, Inc. First Securities, said president Jim Derryberry, is a small, privately held investment corporation based in San Francisco.

"We do not contemplate any changes in operation. All employees will stay on and continue just as they have been. The rates, menu and wine list have been adopted exactly as the Toshes had intended," Derryberry said. "The only change is that we hope that we will be able to operate the entire facility on a year-round basis."

Currently, the dining room shuts down from January to March, but Derryberry said he hopes to change that with some additional "marketing efforts."

Though Derryberry and First Securities of America are based in San Francisco, he said "we intend to be very close to the management. We have engaged a very competent couple — Jim Mann and Verla Yonker — as full-time managers. He has been the manager of the Hungry Tiger restaurant in Sunnyvale and she has been the manager of the Bedford Hotel in downtown San Francisco." Both managed hotels in the Midwest.

What will happen to the Toshes, who have built up the lodge over the years?

"We have been here for 20 years and we have worked very hard," Lavonne Tosh said. "Now we plan to enjoy our leisure and we don't plan to go back into business."

She said her husband, who is a contractor, built the 61 cottages himself but said the lodge already had been there for 25 years when they bought the location in 1965. The lodge also includes a grocery store, swimming pool, laundry and a sauna.

TITLE COMPANY OPENS NEW BRANCH

First American Title Insurance Co. is to open a new branch at 200 Clock Tower Place near The Barnyard some time in the first two weeks of April. The office will be the third on the peninsula, according to Ute Isbill, manager of the First American Monterey office.

The title company deals mainly with residential sales, Isbill said, and is the third largest in the United States.

The manager of the new office, Paul Barber, has more than 12 years of experience in the industry, and has worked for First American for the past six months as a business development officer, Isbill said. He will act as both manager and escrow officer and will be joined by Jim Fontes in the escrow office and Sharon Paul as the business development officer.

Isbill explained the move into Carmel rather succinctly: "Business (home sales) is booming in Carmel."

TEMPEL'S FLORIST HAS MOVED

Tempel's Florist has packed up its petals and moved lock, stock and leaf from the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center on Carmel Rancho Boulevard to 26360 Carmel Rancho Lane.

"We need a lighter and larger area," said Bill Tempel, who owns and runs the business with his wife, Patricia. "We gained 900 sq. ft. in the move."

The nine-year-old full-service florist will continue business as usual, Tempel said.

SIX-MINUTE BUSINESS BOARD SESSION

The March 28 Carmel Business License and Code Review Board meeting was over in a "record time" of six minutes, according to secretary Karen Love. As you might imagine, there weren't many items on the agenda.

The Pebble Beach Ventures, a family partnership of Alan and Rita Shugart, ran into a snag when the Shugart's attorney, Michael Stamp, was told that the offices they wish to use in the Shugart Building on Dolores Street could not be issued an occupancy permit until the entire building is ready for occupancy.

"The occupancy permit is for the whole building," building official Tim Meroney told Stamp.

The license was approved pending the building department approval of occupancy.

The Back Pocket request for a transfer of business location was passed subject to getting the fire alarm system hooked up with the fire department. The Back Pocket, a Dick Bruhn store that caters to young men and boys, moved from Mission Street near Ocean Avenue to the former location of the Woolen Mill on San Carlos between Sixth and Fifth avenues.

Chiropractor Raphael Rettner's request for a transfer of business location from Junipero Avenue to Mission Street between Fourth and Fifth avenues in the former location of Del Monte Realty was granted. Fire Chief Vern Allred told Rettner the office had originally been a chiropractor office.

NEW VALLEY VIDEO OUTLET

More ways are coming to entertain yourself in the Valley. Carmel Valley residents Peggy and Peter Jones will bring to you, for your viewing pleasure, MVM Video in the Mid-Valley Shopping Center starting April 8.

"We will have an initial library of probably around 400 videos," Peggy Jones said. "We hope to be constantly adding to the selection. We eventually hope to have a really good library in how-to tapes: hobbies, traveling, exercise. We would like to emphasize those."

"Right now we will have all the Hollywood-style films, and some foreign, but we would like to improve on the instructional section."

Jones said they will have free popcorn with video recorder rentals, an after-hours drop, and would like to have a delivery service for "areas close by." Peter Jones will continue with his

RUDY-HARRIS STORE TO BE REBUILT

Rudy-Harris, Ltd., the men's clothing store located in The Barnyard, is about to be rebuilt, reopened and renamed.

The rebuilding to transform the present store into a Patrick James store will begin after April 15 and the store will reopen June 1, according to sources at both Rudy-Harris and Patrick James, Inc. Patrick James, Inc. is based in Fresno and has seven men's and five ladies' stores throughout California.

Dick Rudy, president of Rudy-Harris, Inc., writes that he will "continue to serve former Rudy-Harris customers" from the new store in The Barnyard.

SEGER COUNSELS WOMEN ON BUSINESS

In the spirit of a true entrepreneur, Rita Firestone Seger has begun the business of selling what she has learned in her own 25 years as an entrepreneur.

"I have been counseling women about being more effective in business," Seger said. "My main thrust is that I do not deal with the money, location or idea. They can go to financial or legal counselors for that advice."

"I inform women of the other realities of owning a business — the pleasures and pitfalls. I deal on the psychological level — how to deal with employees and clients, how to think like an entrepreneur. I talk about the character and personality of someone who is successful in business and that it is not all fun and games, that it is not glamorous to own your own shop," Seger said.

"If women are going to make money, they must change their conscience about earning money. You can see the problems everywhere, shops that open under-merchandised, and many other problems. I don't tell them how to merchandise but how to think about merchandise. It is the psychology that is the reason for why so many businesses are failing, I believe."

Seger said she does private counseling and is starting workshops as an entrepreneurial advisor. Her first workshop, "The Pleasures and Pitfalls of Owning Your Own Business," is scheduled for Sunday, April 14.

Seger is the owner of the French Collection on Ocean Avenue and Rita Seger Interiors.

Council may enact controls on bulk of new residences

REVISIONS TO a residential design ordinance that will reduce permitted size and bulk of two-story homes and provide more control over the construction of new residences is to be presented to the Carmel City Council Tuesday, April 9.

The council is to meet at 4 p.m. in Carpenter Hall at Sunset Center. The proposed revisions would affect homes in the single-family residential zone.

The draft revisions are in response to city concerns that too many oversized homes are being constructed in the residential zones.

One major component in the revisions is reduction in the allowable coverage for two-story homes.

The draft revision would reduce the allowable square footage of a two-story home on a 4,000-sq. ft. lot from the existing 2,450-sq. ft. to 1,800 sq. ft.

The height limit remains 24 feet except in the coastal zone, where the restriction is 18 feet.

The draft revisions were endorsed by the planning commission in March with little public fanfare.

However, one property owner has protested the reduction in allowable floor area for two-story homes.

He is Frank Perry of Oakland, who owns several parcels in Carmel.

Perry told the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook he is concerned the draft revisions will decrease property values and will discourage families from making Carmel home.

"The ordinance will severely reduce the already-reduced amount of floor space allotted on 4,000 sq. ft. residential lots from 2,450 sq. ft. to 1,800 sq. ft. on two-story homes and if the required driveway is paved and you have one garage or car storage area, [floor space is reduced] down to 1,450 sq. ft.," he said.

"It seems obvious that this makes construction of two-story homes just about impractical," Perry said.

"For esthetic reasons, Carmel needs both one-story and two-story homes. Variety of design adds to its individualistic character and reflects the creativity of the owners."

"You cannot do this with excessive restrictions as with the down zoning of this ordinance. Two-story homes can be as attractive as one-story homes."

Perry also is concerned that smaller houses will discourage families from living in Carmel.

"Even more important is the human factor that most families need more living space for an adequate standard of living than this ordinance would allow," he said.

IN MY opinion, this limited amount of living area, while conducive to retirees and adult living, cuts back on family-oriented residential living.

"Carmel needs people of all ages living in it to be a complete city," Perry said.

Perry believes the draft revisions to the ordinance unfairly affect property values.

"An ordinance like this is down-zoning, could increase the value of large homes already built while decreasing the value of other residences because of this advantage and this is not fair or equitable," he said.

The council has enacted a moratorium that only allows new two-story construction if the height of the home is compatible with the sizes of adjacent residences.

That ordinance is to expire in June.

Councilman David Maradei said revisions to the R-1 design ordinance are important because in the past developers have built "atrocious" homes designed to maximize size allowed.

The moratorium on new second story development was ordered because of these "atrocious" designs, Maradei said.

"We have to stop these blockbuster homes with the atrocious architecture designed to maximize space with little regard to the sentiments of the community and surrounding homes," he said.

"We're in a no man's land. We don't know what this ordinance would do, but action has to be taken. If the ordinance results in better designs, then we succeeded."

Councilman Robert Stephenson favors some kind of new rules for the residential zone.

"Yes, I think a little tightening is in order. There's always times where people weasel through a hole," he said.

Mayor Charlotte Townsend said she has just begun her analysis of the revisions and could not comment.

Councilwoman Helen Arnold was out of town and unavailable for comment. Councilman James Wright refused to discuss the issue outside council sessions.

Easter events abound

HUMAN-SIZED rabbits will oversee peninsula Easter egg hunts and a pancake breakfast in Carmel this weekend. A golf contest and senior citizens' dinner round out the local holiday activities.

MONTEREY EGG HUNT

The annual city-wide Easter Egg Hunt will take place Saturday, April 6 at the El Estero Ball Park next to Dennis the Menace Park, Monterey. The event is co-sponsored by the Monterey Parks and Recreation Department, the Hyatt Regency Monterey and Valu-Max.

The hunt will begin promptly at 10 a.m., so participants are encouraged to be there ahead of time. Children of pre-school age through third grade are invited to attend the hunt. Parents will not be allowed in the hunt area. Each child is asked to bring a container to hold found eggs.

More than 6,000 eggs will be hidden as well as 100 prize eggs. Finders of the prize eggs will receive a free Easter basket from Valu-Max, 686 Lighthouse Ave., Monterey.

Recreation leaders as well as Peter Rabbit will be on hand to supervise this event.

Should it rain, the Easter Egg Hunt will be cancelled and the eggs distributed to children at the site.

For more information, call 646-3866.

HOLE-IN-ONE CONTEST

Quota Club of Carmel Hole-in-One Contest: Saturday and Sunday, April 6-7. The contest takes place from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days at Rancho Canada Golf and Country Club in Carmel Valley.

Grand prize is a 1985 Nissan Maxima GL four-door sedan, fully equipped and with leather seats and sunroof. The prize is donated by Monterey Datsun Subaru.

Prizes will also be awarded hourly in this, the second hole-in-one-contest sponsored by this community service organization. Proceeds will benefit the Shatter Silence program for the speech and hearing impaired.

Advance tickets are six balls for $2. Day of the contest the price is five balls for $2. Tickets can be purchased at Rancho Canada; Western Title Company in The Barnyard, Carmel; and at Deborah's Arts, 307 Forest Ave., Pacific Grove.

EASTER BRUNCH

Senior Citizen's Easter Brunch is co-sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Chef's Association and the Friendly Visitor Program of the Alliance on Aging. It begins at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, April 6 at the Monterey Fairgrounds and Exposition Park.

Admission is by reservation only. Suggested donation is $2 per person. For reservations, call 649-1222.

BREAKFAST AND EGG HUNT

A pancake breakfast will be served by the Carmel Youth Center and the Carmel Mission "200" Lions Club. The community breakfast will be served 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Easter Sunday at the Carmel Youth Center, Fourth and Torres, Carmel. Adult tickets are $3 each. Children under 12 will be fed for $1.50 when accompanied by an adult.

The menu consists of ham or sausage, pancakes, juice and a second beverage. Tickets will be available at the door or in advance from the Carmel Youth Center, 624-3285.

Easter egg hunts will be staggered the duration of that breakfast. Peter Rabbit will oversee the search. Proceeds from this activity will go towards the Carmel Youth Center.

Fund-raising 'Human Race' runs again on peninsula

For more information or to register for the Human Race, call Volunteers in Action at 373-6177.

Bach Festival program announced

SANDOR SALGO, music director and conductor of the Carmel Bach Festival, has announced the program for the 48th season, July 15 through Aug. 4.

The success of 1984 can be duplicated or topped in 1985 with sufficient community support. The Human Race is a community fund-raiser for non-profit agencies, schools and organizations on the Monterey Peninsula. It is organized as a 10-kilometer walk-a-thon.

Each person who takes part finds sponsors to pay for each kilometer walked. Seventy-five percent of the money raised goes to the participant's favorite charity. Twenty-five percent goes to Volunteers in Action.

The event begins and ends at Monterey High School. The walk-a-thon will wind through Monterey and Pacific Grove. It has been designed as an easy walk for children, adults and seniors.

Walkers' registration will take place between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. Saturday, May 11. Volunteers In Action will provide pledge sheets, prizes, T-shirts, refreshments, route staff and organization.

Both groups and individuals are encouraged to participate. Volunteers In Action is the clearinghouse on the Monterey Peninsula for recruiting and placing volunteers for non-profit groups.

The Human Race is sponsored in conjunction with the Northern California Council of Volunteer Centers and will take place in 19 California communities.

Young singers evidence talent and potential

CONTROVERSIAL they may be, but competitions have been around for several hundred years, and they are unlikely to disappear.

Louis Marchand is best known historically for his hasty, late-night departure from Dresden to avoid meeting one Sebastian Bach in an organ-playing contest.

The most pernicious aspect of many competitions is the lining up of good, better, best. The seasoned competitor knows how to deal with this and tends to look upon competitions as good experience, a chance to meet other artists, perhaps some cash and concert dates.

There are some unfortunate limiting factors in most competitions which make it impossible to get a truly representative sample for competitors. In our obsession with youth, we tend to establish ridiculously low age limits in terms of artistry and sometimes even in terms of technique.

Financial considerations may keep out a number of potential contestants. Even if there is no entry fee, the travel, housing, accompanists' fees and loss of wages can be prohibitive.

Therefore, the good-better-best is the choice only of that field on that day. Much like a horse race, the lineup might be very different tomorrow.

WHAT'S PLAYING AT THE MOVIES

Amadeus: Peter Shaffer's Broadway hit about Mozart gets full, if time-consuming, Hollywood treatment. Milos Forman directs this multiple-Oscar winner. Rated PG. At the Crossroads Cinema. 624-2792.

The Breakfast Club: Forced to serve all-day library detention, five high school students who think they have little in common discover the opposite to be true. Written and directed by John Hughes. The Breakfast Club cast

The Carmel Music Society 1985 Young California Artist Competition was for singers. The eight young singers selected as finalists were heard during the day Saturday, as the judges made their final selection. The winners were presented in concert Saturday night.

Despite the amount of subjectivity that goes into anyone's musical judgments, there are enough objective things to look to make a consensus possible. As it happened, I missed hearing only two of the contestants, and I was 100 percent with the judges on the top two.

Tenor Robert Swensen, winner of the Nancy Ness Bowman Memorial Grand Prize, is an impressive talent. The range of his voice is large, with a rich lower register that he should cultivate. The voice is nicely clear now and it is to be hoped that he will be able to keep the clarity with the inevitable darkening that will come with maturity. Swensen has the promise of a fine lieder singer.

Second prize went to Jacalyn Wehmhoff, billed as a mezzo-soprano. This young lady has the makings of a Wagnerian singer, and one can only hope she has a coach who won't move her along too fast. She opens her mouth and out pours an immense column of sound. With such an instrument, it was no surprise that her Wagner and Mahler surpassed her other work.

BOTH THESE young singers are graduate students at the University of Southern California and active in the Los Angeles area.

Third prize went to Alice Baker, and the judges decided on a fourth prize for Rodney Gilfry. For the others, it was not the time and place. Perhaps next year.

The overall impression of the training of this group left something to be desired. Granted, vocal teachers have a tough includes Emilio Estevez, Molly Ringwald and Ally Sheedy. Rated R. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

The Care Bears Movie: This feature-length animated fantasy is narrated by Mickey Rooney. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

Desperately Seeking Susan: Madonna, Rosanna Arquette and Robert Joy star in this offbeat romantic adventure. Susan (Smithereens) Seideman directs. Rated PG-13. At the Hill Theatre. 375-2800.

The Gods Must Be Crazy: Coke bottle prompts strife among African bushmen when the chief, Xi, decides to run with it to the edge of the earth and throw it away. There he encounters "civilized" characters, and the laughter increases. Rated PG. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

King David: Richard Gere portrays the shepherd boy who became king of Israel. The Biblical epic is directed by Bruce Beresford. Rated PG-13. At the Valley Cinema. 624-5111.

The Last Dragon: A kung fu expert (Taimak) rescues the disco queen Vanity who is threatened by ruthless entrepreneurs. This music-and-martial-arts fantasy is rated PG-13. At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

Mask: Cher portrays the mother of a disfigured boy who grows up in the rough and tumble world of motorcyclists. Sam Elliot co-stars. Directed by Peter Bogdanovich. Rated PG-13. At the Golden Bough Theatre. 624-4044.

Police Academy II: This sequel to the raucous comedy concerns the rookie cops' first assignment. Stars include Steve Guttenberg and Bubba Smith. Rated PG-13. At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

Porky's Revenge: Sequel to the comedy set in mythical Angel Beach High School. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

The Purple Rose of Cairo: Woody Allen wrote and directed but does not star in this byplay between on-screen cast and audience, in which '30s waitress Mia Farrow falls for a movie hero. He walks off the screen and into her life. Trouble follows. Jeff Daniels and Danny Aiello co-star. Rated PG. At the Crossroads Cinema. 624-2792.

The Slugger's Wife: Michael O'Keefe and Rebecca DeMornay star in this Neil Simon comedy. Careers clash between major league baseball player and rock singer wife. Rated PG-13. At the Carmel Village Theatre. 624-5341.

Witness: Harrison Ford portrays John Book, a Philadelphia police captain, and encounters romance when he meets an Amish farmer's widow whose son accidentally witnessed a drug-related killing. Witness is directed by Australian Peter Weir, whose previous credits include The Year of Living Dangerously and Gallipoli. Rated R. At the Regency Theatre. 375-6696.

time since they cannot see or feel the instrument they are training.

That does not excuse the amount of forcing of the sort that may all too soon produce an uncontrollable wobble — sometimes kindly referred to as vibrato. Inaccurate attacks, causing a swooping to the right note, and sloppy releases were more evident than one would like. Diction was almost uniformly poor. Swensen and Wehmhoff were the best here also, but they still could improve.

Furthermore, because of the poetry, singers must be actors, and they must be able to command the stage in a way that is not necessary for their wordless siblings. A good drama coach can do a lot.

One wonders why the women, four out of five, billed themselves as mezzo-sopranos. A true mezzo is an unusual voice, and it has a lot to do with the coloring. If you have to go into a chest voice at middle C, the chances are you are not a mezzo, although there is no reason not to cultivate a smooth transition and increase the range.

Most of these women had large voices (part of the reason they are not heard at their best yet) and college training tends to call any large female voice a mezzo. There may be (another) dramatic or spinto voice among them.

Because of the nature of the event, the program jumped around mercilessly. One was transported through style periods, composers and languages with reckless abandon.

Competent, somewhat cautious, assistance at the keyboard was provided by Camille Olaeta and Evan Solomon.

Low-cost pet vaccinations offered

Reduced fee rabies vaccination clinics will be offered by the Monterey County Health Department and the Monterey Bay Veterinary Medical Association.

Dog owners whose pets are not under the regular care of a veterinarian are urged to take this opportunity to have their animals vaccinated at a reduced fee of $3. Monterey County requires that all dogs be vaccinated against rabies and also licensed. Most cases of rabies in dogs result from exposure to rabid wild animals, such as bats, skunks, raccoons and foxes.

As a convenience to owners, the required 1985-86 city and county dog licenses may be obtained at the clinics. The local clinic schedule is as follows:

- Pebble Beach: 1:30 p.m.-3 p.m. Thursday, April 11, Pacific Grove Gate, 17 Mile Drive;
 - Carmel: 12:30 p.m.-4 p.m. Friday, April 19, Sunset Center, San Carlos at Ninth;
 - Carmel Valley: 12:30 p.m.-2:30 p.m. Friday, April 26, Fire Station, Via Contenata, The Village;
 - Big Sur: 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Thursday, May 2, Grange Hall;
 - S.P.C.A.: 12:30-2:30 p.m. Saturday, May 25, Highway 68.
- For more information, call the county health department, 899-4271 or 1-757-1061.

Runners take to Marina streets

Free entrance in the 1985 Bay to Breakers race in San Francisco is among the prizes the overall male and female winners will garner in the Marina Five Miler foot race.

The race starts and ends at Marina City Park, 3200 Del Monte Blvd., Marina. The certified course follows paved roads, mostly flat with some rolling hills, throughout town. An aid station will be set up at the end of the race. The Five Miler is set to begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 6. A full schedule of other events will pepper the day.

From 8 a.m. to 9:15 a.m., race registration will take place. The Marina Five Miler entry fee is $8 per runner.

A children's run (age 11 and under) will begin at 9:30 a.m. Awards will be distributed at 11 a.m. and a children's Easter egg hunt will start at 1 p.m.

The Marina Five Miler is directed by the Marina Parks and Recreation Department.

THEATER REVIEW

BY JOANNE TENENBAUM

Provocative tour de force at Cal Rep

THERE'S many a slip twixt the fact and the myth, and sometimes it's hard to see your own face once the public owns you.

This fact of life is explored in striking and original ways in a two-character tour de force, Jesse and the Bandit Queen, now onstage at California Repertory Theater in Pacific Grove.

Jesse and the Bandit Queen provocatively combines the legends of two of the most popular criminals in the history of the American West — Belle Starr and Jesse James — and then proceeds to vivisect them. Under the nimble direction of Tony Amendola, Molly Mayock as Belle and Don Bilotti as Jesse have at each other in a two-hour surreal encounter in which they play themselves, each other, and seminal figures in each other's lives.

The first 10 minutes of Act I are demanding and confusing until the audience grasps the play's unusual logic and devices, for the play leaps backward and forward in time and the two characters assume one role after another with minimal props and costume changes.

Bilotti's Jesse James is revealed as unimaginative and marginally bright. He begins his infamous career mindlessly looting and murdering towns full of people under the command of Southern sympathizer William Quantrill, a degenerate, Bible-spouting egomaniac with an unspeakable bloodlust and a penchant for sexual perversion. Although Quantrill is mowed down fairly early in James' career, the twig is definitively bent. "You get famous for spilling blood, you'd better keep on doing it," Jesse explains.

In contrast, Belle Starr is glamorized. A woman of no particular beauty who consorted with at least four thieves and gunmen and who finally did a year of time for horse stealing, she is here portrayed as a stunningly sexy woman with keen insight, delicious wit, and an extremely savvy attitude toward the relentless myth-making of the press. "I guess I added to the confusion," she confides. "But it was more fun being written up in them magazines than never being wrote up at all."

WHEN THE TWO combine, they wrestle, no holds barred, with their own private devils and each other's. Not for the faint-hearted, Jesse and the Bandit Queen contains violence, strong language, and sexual content that includes incest and reported child rape.

Jesse is outraged by the lies printed about him in the Police Gazette — the National Enquirer of his day — and fights back by writing his own myth. Belle takes a more sane approach, conspiring in the myth-building and keeping her own identity relatively intact.

Molly Mayock's performance is flawless and delightful. Utterly convincing and appealing as Belle Starr, she is equally fine as Quantrill, James' fluffy housewife Zee, and his murderer, young Bobby Ford.

Don Bilotti brings great control to the role of Jesse James, and quick character sketching to his smaller roles, notably as the smooth-talking newspaper editor, the shameless mountebank in a traveling show, and as Judge Parker, the hanging judge, dispensing his own peculiar brand of justice.

With highly effective audio effects and lighting by Keith Snider, the production is smooth and expert. Snider's single setting is effective but not obtrusive, just right for the surreal sleight-of-hand the script demands.

Magnetized to each other, Belle Starr and Jesse James hold up the mirror to each other's myths, unmasking each other relentlessly. They peel away layer after layer of illusion — the Police Gazette's hyperbolic reportage, their own justifications and delusions of grandeur.

As their myths increasingly intertwine, their identities blur intriguingly. All this makes for riveting, complicated theater not easily left behind at the end of the evening. Playwright David Freeman leaves the audience with nagging questions about America's unquenchable thirst for violent heroes and the press's irresponsible sensationalism.

CALLED THE "Train of Kings" and "The King of Trains," the Orient Express steams eastward from Paris to Istanbul with a capacity load of passengers who enjoy the ultimate in elegant train travel. The Explorama feature will visit several countries during the train's journey.

Designs in layered paper collage, sculpture featured in Seaside

Works by Aileen Geddes, artist, and Christopher Bell, sculptor, will be featured in the Seaside Art Gallery during the month of April.

Aileen Geddes is one of the few artists to make her own paper and create layered paper paintings. Combining layers of paper to form the painting, she uses shaved pastel, watercolor and ink to bring forth the image. She achieves variety by using only watercolor on some works, mixed media on others. She also employs an embossing technique by pressing pieces of shell, kelp or sand into the raw pulp, then adding shells and wildflowers to create a collage.

Accomplished in a variety of media, Aileen has won numerous awards for jewelry, open weaving, oils, pastel, pencil rendering and watercolors. She is a contributing artist for the Monterey Museum of Art Auction and has had one-woman shows in galleries throughout the bay area. A complete selection of her work is currently being shown at Courtney's Interior Design in Sedona, Ariz. and is scheduled for exhibition at Masters Gallery in Sedona.

Christopher Bell will display his work in the glass showcases. He has been a professional sculptor since 1973. His formal fine art education and training include early work in a variety of media. He has had one-man exhibitions in New York, Honolulu, Houston, Scottsdale, Ariz., Winter Park, Fla., Carmel and Sausalito. Bell has sculptures in galleries and private collections in San Francisco, London, Sydney, Stockholm, New York and New England.

Bell was born in 1948 in Kansas City, Mo. He and his wife Nancy have two sons, Aaron and Jordan. His home and studio are in Pacific Grove.

The Seaside City Hall Art Gallery is located at 440 Harcourt Ave., Seaside, and the viewing hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, when the City Hall is open. There is no admission charge.

'Orient Express' profiled

THE TRAIN that transported smugglers, spies, diplomats and royalty will be profiled in the newest Explorama offering, The Orient Express, to be narrated in person by its producer, Kathleen Dusek, during three Carmel showings.

The full-length color documentary chronicles travels from Paris to Istanbul — through France, Austria, Hungary, Romania and Turkey — the route taken for nine decades by diplomats and royalty, the famous and the infamous.

The train itself is a stage setting for the imagination: rich wood paneling, elegant dining cars, and a piano bar that might have been frequented by Cole Porter and Noel Coward.

Award-winning producer Kathleen Dusek is known for the innovative quality of her films and narration.

The Orient Express will be screened at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 11 and 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Friday, April 12 at Sunset Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel. Tickets are $6.50 and can be reserved at the Mail Box, Carmel; BASS; or by sending check or money order to Explorama, 701 Sutter St., San Francisco, 94109. Enclosed a self-addressed, stamped envelope to insure prompt handling.

For credit card telephone reservations, call (415) 771-4733.

ZEUS, a sculpture by Peter Winter, is among the eclectic works exhibited at Pampas in The Barnyard, Carmel. An artists' reception is planned from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday, April 4. For details, call 624-6233.

Multiple artforms represented at Pampas exhibit in The Barnyard

A VARIED exhibition that embraces sculpture, paintings and pine needle basketry opens with an artists' reception at Pampas. The reception, open to the public, is scheduled from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday, April 4.

Pampas is above The Peppercorn in The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel.

Mythical sculpture by Peter Winter will be represented at the exhibit. The artist uses classical mythological concepts in concert with both contemporary and primitive forms.

Both exaggeration and decoration are reflected in these works to produce a forceful allegorical presence. According to the artist, his figures create their own conversations with the viewer.

James Hunolt brings his bronze figures to Pampas. "There is a spark of grace and beauty in every human experience," Hunolt said. "Each experience, including suffering, can be expressed in a beautiful, simple form."

"I find the human form the most ideal medium to express the infinite variety of the human spirit. The bronzes shown here are attempts to mold my unique illusion into a solid and real form."

Painter Regina Moritz brings her newest canvases to the Pampas showing. Working in acrylic, she makes her figures bend with emotion and understanding. Moodiness wrestles in this gathering, finding beauty in the toil and strain of living.

Rosemary Alvarez has worked for years to refine the art of pine needle basket weaving. Her designs prove to be both useful and beautiful, in a variety of shapes and sizes that are inspired by elements in nature.

The exhibit will remain at Pampas through May 15. The gallery also carries handmade goods from Central and South America. For more information, call 624-6233.

Dodge previews new poster

A TASTE of the Big Apple arrives in Carmel Saturday, April 6 with the preview of a new work at the Bill W. Dodge Gallery, Dolores Street near Fifth Avenue.

Ruth Warrick Goes to Work, titled in honor of the "All My Children" soap opera star, is Dodge's new poster that will be introduced at ArtExpo New York 1985. Dodge will preview the poster from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The Carmel artist's latest design is a microcosm of New York, depicting such New York sights as Radio City Music Hall and the Rockettes, the Horn and Hardart automat, the Shubert Theater and Rockefeller Center.

The poster was created especially for ArtExpo, a fine arts fair that will take place April 11-15 in the New York Coliseum. This marks the second consecutive year Dodge has painted a poster for the event, which will be attended by more than 100,000 viewers during its five-day run.

Dodge's 1984 ArtExpo poster, titled Identified Flying Objects Over Broadway, is owned by Vincent Sardi, Jr., of Sardi's Restaurant.

Dodge is the creator of the Americana Collection of Libby, McNeill and Libby and has completed other corporate commissions. His art is included in the collections of Beverly Sills, Liv Ullmann, Dorothy Loudon, Robert Shields and others.

New paintings by peninsula artists Merry Kohn and Donna Moses will also be shown at the Carmel preview party. The artists will be on hand to greet the guests.

The Dodge Gallery specializes in primitive and naif art. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily. For more information, call 625-5636.

RUTH WARRICK Goes to Work, a new April 6 at an autograph party at the Dodge ArtExpo poster by Bill W. Dodge, will be Gallery, Dolores near Fifth, Carmel. previewed from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday,

CAA show celebrates spring

"SPRING, Lush and Verdant" is the theme of the show opening at the Carmel Art Association Galleries on Thursday, April 4.

Featured will be a one-man show of paintings by John La Pierre, a longtime member of the Carmel Art Association and a resident of Pacific Grove. The works are mixed media: oil, acrylic and collage.

La Pierre taught art at Pacific Grove High School from 1952 to 1979. His students were led by a teacher concerned with use of space. His work has been exhibited, not only in the United States, but also in Germany and Mexico.

He has received several degrees: a B.A. in art education from the College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland; an M.A. in art education from Stanford University and an M.F.A. from the Instituto Allende in Mexico. The artist retired from teaching this year.

In the words of fellow CAA member Sam Colburn: "The art of collage is fascinating. Go and see this show. To use a metaphor, you will realize what can be done with 'a rag, a bone, and a hank of hair.'"

Besides the usual monthly showing of the work of all members, the April exhibit will present the art of four men in special combination. The four are Gerald Wasserman, Joe Tanous, Alex Gonzales and Gus Arriola.

Wasserman will show straight oil paintings on canvas plus monotypes on paper. The latter are derived from a single printing from an oil painting on glass.

Joe Tanous will show oils on canvas. His style has changed in recent years and these new paintings will be abstract.

Alex Gonzales paints very large images. He will exhibit acrylic on canvas.

The quartet is completed with the inclusion of four color strips of cartoons by Gus Arriola, creator of "Gordo." He is creating the strips especially for the spring showing.

The galleries are on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues in Carmel. Admission is free.

Restful watercolors

MARK ADAMS' Rowboat, 1980, is from a selection of Adams' recent watercolors displayed at the Monterey Peninsula

Museum of Art through April 28. Admission is free to the museum, located at 559 Pacific St., Monterey.

Joan Devine's landscapes featured

Carmel Foundation artist of the month Joan Devine will display a collection of 15 landscapes.

Devine was born in Monterey and was graduated from St. Mary's Academy in Los Angeles. She then attended the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland and the Art Center in Los Angeles.

When she returned to live in Monterey in 1977, she studied with Nancy Johnson at The Carmel Cultural Center and has since participated in several workshops with Richard Yip, Zoltan Szabo and George Post.

She recently studied Sune, the art of Chinese brush painting, with Pauline Chu and Mary Jane Sausser at Monterey Peninsula College.

Devine has shown her work at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History in the annual watercolor competitive and has had solo shows at Canterbury Woods, Forest Hill Manor and at the Pacific Grove Art Center. She has also shown with The Central Coast Art Association and with the Monterey Peninsula Watercolor Society.

Her watercolors will be displayed the entire month of April during the Foundation hours in the gallery at Eighth and Lincoln in Carmel.

Children's art classes return to Sunset Center

A new class in art for children and young adults will begin Saturday, April 13 at Sunset Center, Carmel.

The children's class will be devoted to basic skills in drawing, including charcoal, pencil, pen and ink; then on to color in watercolor and oil pastel. There will be "still lifes" to draw from and some figure drawing will also be included.

Rima West, a peninsula artist for the past 24 years, has taught classes at the Sunset Center, the Lyceum and in her studio at home. She studied at the California College of Arts and Crafts and at the Portland Museum Art School.

Dante Most, the other instructor, has been a local artist for the past 14 years. He has taught children's art classes with Rima West and independently through the Monterey Lyceum and also privately in Carmel. His past studies include working as a scholarship student with George de Groat through the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art.

The two instructors will be present at all classes and able to devote attention to each child's individual needs. The cost is $35 for the four sessions and pre-registration is advised. For more information regarding classes, call 624-4650.

ORDINANCE NO. 85-1

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING A PERMIT AND INSPECTION FEE FOR A CONNECTION TO THE CARMEL SANITARY DISTRICT'S SEWERAGE SYSTEM, OR ANY REPAIRS THERETO, AND REPEALING ORDINANCE NO. 54

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE CARMEL SANITARY DISTRICT DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

1. Permit/Inspection Fee. There is hereby established an levied upon all persons, firms or corporations making connection to the District's community sewerage system, or repairing or otherwise modifying an existing connection to the system, a permit and inspection fee of $75; provided, however, that whenever in the opinion of the General Manager a special situation occurs wherein the above-stated flat fee will not cover the actual costs incurred and time expended by the District in processing a permit and making the necessary inspections, he may then determine a particular permit and inspection fee based on a time and material basis to compensate the District for the actual service rendered.

2. Revision of Fee. The flat permit and inspection fee established hereinabove may be reviewed and modified (i.e., increased or decreased) from time to time by resolution of the Board of Directors, without the necessity of specifically amending this ordinance.

3. Ordinance No. 54 Repealed. Ordinance No. 54, is hereby repealed.

4. Publication. Following adoption, this ordinance shall be published once in a newspaper published in the District.

5. Effective Date. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force one (1) week after the date it is published in the newspaper.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carmel Sanitary District duly held on March 21, 1985, by the following vote:

AYES: BOARD MEMBERS: Beemer, Floyd, McGinnis, Stevens, Tedrow.

NOTICE OF DEATH OF JAMES PAGE van LOBEN SELS AND OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE Case No. MP 9157

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate of JAMES P. van LOBEN SELS, also known as JAMES PAGE van LOBEN SELS, a petition has been filed by JAMES WARREN van LOBEN SELS in the Superior Court of Monterey County requesting that JAMES WARREN van LOBEN SELS be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act.

A hearing on the petition will be held on April 12, 1985 at 9:30 a.m. located at 1200 Aguaquito Road, Monterey, California 93940.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should either appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court or present it to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 700 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire prior to four months from the date of the hearing noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may serve upon the executor or administrator, or upon the attorney for the executor or administrator, and file with the court with proof of service, a written request stating that you desire special notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisement of estate assets or of the petitions or accounts mentioned in sections 1200 and 1220.5 of the California Probate Code.

Franco tells why he voted for project

The language is not a blanket endorsement of maximum development.

"The LUP doesn't guarantee anything. The reason we have public hearings is to gain additional information," he said.

But Franco does not believe the design warranted major changes because it does not interfere with public access, is not extremely visible from the public way and is not higher than the trees at the hotel site.

The Coastal Act, approved by voters as Prop. 20 in 1972, generally was thought to be a tool to protect the coast from helter-skelter development.

However, political changes by the legislature slowly have loosened the provisions of the original Coastal Act to make visitor accommodations a high priority for development in the coastal zone.

More pro-development changes came in the Coastal Act of 1976, which was the result of legislative attempts to balance property rights and economics with the need to protect the coast, Franco said.

One of the changes was the elimination of the housing element of the Coastal Act, which gave the commission authority to deny projects if the development would replace low and moderate income housing.

Carmel Valley Ranch is located just 15 minutes from the restaurants and shops of Carmel by the Sea and only 20 minutes from Pebble Beach.
Yet, where Carmel's scenic seaside areas are often shrouded in fog, Carmel Valley Ranch enjoys sunshine virtually all year long. Situated on 1750 private acres, CVR consists of the prestigious Carmel Valley Ranch Homes, a 12-court tennis club (including a sunken stadium court), two practice courts, a swimming pool and spa, a world class Pete Dye golf course with a 19,000 square-foot clubhouse and 1250 acres of scenic upland open space with riding and hiking trails.

The Ranch is bordered on its northerly edge by the scenic, winding Carmel River.

Entirely private, access is through a security gate that is manned 24 hours a day.

Extraordinarily spacious, Carmel Valley Ranch Homes offer master bedroom suite with sitting area,

6.2 miles off Highway 1
on Carmel Valley Road.
Right on Robinson Road to security gate.

OUTSTANDING SOLAR HOME FEATURED IN ARCHITECTURAL MAGAZINES

PARTINGTON RIGE, BIG SUR, CALIFORNIA

From the circular drive, paved with redwood slabs, can be glimpsed, through trees, this unusual and exciting architect designed solar retreat, with many flexible use areas.

Down redwood steps, through a garden and over a plank bridge crossing a small pool, one enters through a carved door indicative of the fine craftsmanship throughout.

The curved seating area surrounds a firepit which raises and lowers automatically. Facing is a broad window seat which can be used for sleeping. Two more similar seats front on the brick paved dining area. All indoor plants and trees are on automatic watering system. In the background is a sculptured storage cabinet concealing the kitchen.

The house is built around this water tank which is warmed by solar heat and topped by a loft for study or sleeping. Other areas include the master suite one-half flight above the main living area; another room and bath with stonelined tub one-half flight below, and a hobby room/office one flight down, with storage, darkroom and control center off the lower stairway. Ocean views add to enjoyment of this exceptional residence. $750,000. Contact our Coast Properties Division.

FOX HALL IN CARMEL

Here lies a rare opportunity to own one of the most flexible and interesting homes in Carmel. It is located in an ideal spot just a short stroll to either Carmel Beach or the River Beach, is an easy level walk to the village, and offers ideal access to the newer shopping areas at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

The home offers a total of four bedrooms, three full baths, a huge open ceilinged living room opening to a sunny walled courtyard. The floor plan is ideal in that master bedroom and guest room or den (each with private bath), are at one end of the house while a separate wing holds the two remaining bedrooms and bath for use as guest suite, children's area, or whatever. An extra bonus is a generous family room between the kitchen and the children's wing.

All of this is offered in excellent condition and for the low price of only:

UNOBSTRUCTED VIEWS

OF CARMEL BEACH and the bay from Point Lobos to Pescadero Point can be yours in this lovely home on Scenic Road. You'll have a large house of about 2,300 square feet with four bedrooms and three and one-half baths on an oversized lot. It has a sheltered, sunny patio with a hot tub and a built-in barbecue. It has a double garage AND it has a guest house with a lovely ocean view, too. The asking price is $1,300,000.

LEASEHOLD

DOWNTOWN CARMEL, with rear entrance on Ocean Avenue and front entrance on Sixth. This great location is highly suitable for designer's studio, real estate offices or many other uses. Upstairs has a neat two-room apartment and a half bath. There are few rentals in Carmel with such a coveted location. Call Lee Goodenough for details. Asking $45,000.

A SHINING JEWEL

POLISHED and clean, and beautifully maintained! A newly listed home in the Monterey Peninsula Country Club area of Pebble Beach, offering seclusion and convenience. Open beamed ceiling in living room, wet bar, separate dining room, convenient kitchen, three nice bedrooms and two up-to-date baths. A very good buy for this fine area at $200,000.

PACIFIC GROVE VICTORIAN

A TWO STORY charmer with four bedrooms, two baths and a formal dining room is a corner lot in a very nice part of town. It was up-dated in 1981 with a new roof, carpets and shower and repainted inside and out. This immaculate home is a pleasure to show at a reduced price of $177,000.

MATCHLESS

A FINE HOMESITE at the end of Camino Real in Carmel, just where the bird sanctuary begins...so you can watch the birds, the clouds, the water, and the nearby hills forever and ever! It's the only undeveloped property of its kind in the immediate area. Lot size is 108 by 100. $250,000.
